Ludendorff Sees War, India Visits London, She Smokes at 82, Hunting the Microbe.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

GEN. LUDENDORFF sees another war in 1932. When it is over, according to his prophecy:

"Germany and Italy will be crushed. Russia, England and Austria will side with Germany, but France, heading another group will win."

THAT PROPHECY need not be taken seriously. The German generals had little idea of what was going to happen in 1914. They counted on a single victorious campaign to last a few months.

A REAL WAR prophet was the Polish banker Jean De Bloch, who, before he died in 1902, made this prediction:

War between powers of nearly equal strength would be a suicidal deadlock, destructive to both. There could be no fighting in the open, as that would mean annihilation. The war must be one of trenches to be carried only by front attack. Two long lines of trenches would face each other, with continuous battles that would have no decisive result.

In almost every particular the war verified his predictions, as it did those of Norman Ingell, who foresaw "economic ruin for victors and vanquished."

REPRESENTATIVES of the 300,000,000 that live in India, met yesterday in London at a round table conference with the powers of the British Empire.

India demanded "dominion status," the same right of self-government as is possessed by Canada, Australia, and other partners in the British Empire.

The two British speeches, one from the throne and one by Ramsay MacDonald, presiding at the round table, carefully avoided mention of dominion status.

THE KING said:

"It gives me much pleasure to welcome the governors of my empire."

But he said nothing definite.

Everybody knows self-government for India is out of the question, with 60,000,000 Mohammedans ready to dominate 240,000,000 Hindus. But no one dares tell the truth to India or discourage the national feeling which is a people's only salvation.

WHEN NEWS came that good Queen Mary, who wears old-fashioned hats and skirts down to her shoetops, smokes cigarets occasionally, virtuous American women sent her an urgent letter of protest, asking her please to stop it.

They probably had no idea how little real fun there is for a well-behaved queen.

WHAT WILL the virtuous American women say when they learn that Princess Louise, daughter of Queen Victoria, and 82 years old, also smokes cigarets, and a very inexpensive popular brand?

The virtuous ones will wonder how the Princess has managed to live so long, under the circumstances.

MAN'S OCCUPATION from the beginning has been hunting down his enemies, to destroy them, or hunting other men and animals for food.

Hunters at first used their legs and hands, then horses, hounds, hawks.

How they have changed from hunting the mastodon, driving the 25,000 pound monsters into pits, to hunting creatures too small to be seen with the naked eye.

AUSTRIAN ART treasures in Salzburg were exposed to destruction by minute worms, devouring priceless manuscripts and ancient carved wood.

Scientists exposed the worms for 18 hours to the vapors of cyanide gas. The worms are all dead and the art treasures are safe.

IN YALE'S bacteriological laboratory a French scientist, Dr. D'Herelle, has developed a substance called bacteriophage, or "bacteria devourer," which, introduced in the human body, attacks and destroys harmful germs that often cause fatal blood poisoning, or gradual destruction of bone and tissue.

Bacteriophage, applied to boils, by an expert, will destroy the poisonous bacteria that created the boil.

When the dangerous germs are destroyed the bacteriophage, having nothing more to eat, dies of starvation.

IF THE BACTERIOPHAGE could be induced to work against cancer, one great problem would be solved.

Unfortunately, it has not been shown that cancer is caused by a germ. It is probably the result of "wild cells" in the body, running amuck and disregarding the welfare of other cells.

THE PRINCE OF WALES yesterday flew in the giant German airship DO-X, taking the controls during the flight.

The DO-X flight to this country will be the most important trans-Atlantic flight made thus far.

THE PRINCE OF WALES adds to his deserved popularity when he runs the giant machine, flying out to the DO-X anchored on the water in the Saro Cloud, the world's most powerful amphibian plane, owned in Canada.

The prince is about to start on a journey through South America to include Brazil and the

BULLETIN.

LYONS, France, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The Hospital des Chazeaux and surrounding districts were evacuated late today in fear of further landslides which already have taken between 60 and 100 lives in this city.

LYONS, France, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—A landslide that took the lives of between 60 and 100 persons has thrown the entire city of Lyons into mourning.

Last night virtually the entire Fourviere Hill, surmounted by the Basilica of St. Jean, slid in the city proper, bringing down 10 houses in ruins.

This afternoon, more than 12 hours after the first of three recurrent collapses, not a single body had been recovered, although 11 injured had been taken to a hospital.

HERRIOT AIDS RESCUE

Twenty-seven persons, unhurt but badly shaken, also were being cared for at the same hospital.

Former Premier Herriot, mayor of Lyons for 25 years, was personally superintending rescue work, arising from a sick bed where he had been confined for several days.

ARMY HELP ASKED

He sent in an urgent call to army headquarters at Grenoble, asking that two companies of engineers be dispatched to Lyons immediately to lead volunteer rescue parties.

The death of 19 firemen and 7 policemen, who were trapped by a second collapse at three o'clock this morning while attempting to rescue the victims of the first landslide, has disorganized rescue parties.

"LIKE THUNDERCLAP"

While it still was impossible to gauge the full extent of the tragedy because of the tons of earth that must be removed, late estimates placed the number of dead between 60 and 100.

An aged woman described the landslide:

"A sinister crackling like a thunder clap. I was surprised, because the sky was clear and many stars were visible."

CAME AFTER MIDNIGHT

To add to the horror of the catastrophe, it came shortly after midnight when the occupants of houses at the foot of the hill were asleep.

The first landslide, loosened apparently by heavy rains of the last two days, rushed down and crushed three buildings instantly. Police and firemen hurried to the scene, but hardly had they entered the area than a house collapsed above them, burying them in their turn.

Other landslides followed, some of them smaller, and by the time the rumbling of the earth had subsided 10 houses had been crushed.

Woman Judge Sees Pinchot as 1932 Candidate

HARRISBURG, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Judge Sara M. Soffel, of Pittsburgh, today declared that Gifford Pinchot, governor-elect of Pennsylvania, "will most likely be the Progressive-dry standard-bearer" in 1932 if the Republican party is split on the question of prohibition.

This statement was made in Miss Soffel's address here before the eighth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Council of Republican Women. She sighted Dwight W. Morrow, U. S. senator-elect from New Jersey, as the possible "Moses to lead the Republican party out of the wilderness if President Hoover proves to be a one-term executive."

PREDOMINANT ISSUES

She declared that she believed prohibition and power would be the predominant issues in the 1932 presidential election. She said:

"I do not believe the Eighteenth Amendment can be repealed within the next 10 years because to prevent this repeal requires the vote of only 13 states, and I believe there will be at least that many who will be opposed to the issue.

"I do feel, however, that the enforcement of the amendment in the individual states should be managed by the state, the federal government interfering only in interstate questions."

CURTIS TO SPEAK

Tonight the women voters were to hear their party's problems and accomplishments outlined by state and national leaders.

U. S. TO ADD 500 DRY AGENTS

Increase Approved by Budget Bureau, Congressional Sanction Still Needed

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Employment of 500 additional prohibition agents has been approved by the budget bureau and they will be added to the force in the near future if Congress makes the appropriation for their payment, Attorney General Mitchell announced today.

The attorney general explained that one of the principal reasons for recalling Prohibition Director Amos W. W. Woodcock to Washington was to consult him concerning the prohibition enforcement budget for the next year.

HOOVER SEEKS FACTS

President Hoover also desired to consult Woodcock, Mitchell said, about the activities of the bureau in the past six months. Presumably, this consultation was desired by Mr. Hoover before he prepared his annual message to Congress.

Questioned about the department's attitude toward widely advertised sales of grape concentrates, which nature allows to become wine, the attorney general said the department was standing for the present on the position it adopted in 1926 when the United States Circuit Court of Appeals held that a person could lawfully manufacture fruit juices

TREE CRUSHES 7 CHILDREN

IRONTON, O., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Seven children were injured, two possibly fatally, when a tree stump dynamited by contractors crashed through the roof of a country school at Kelly's Bridge, near here today.

James Dean, 12, suffered a crushed skull when struck by the stump as it fell into the school room. A portion also struck Rodney Elam, 11, severing his scalp.

County officials said 22 sticks of dynamite had been placed beneath the stump, 125 yards from the school. When it was exploded a portion of the stump weighing about 600 pounds broke through the roof of the building.

Officials said several children would have been killed had it fallen on the desks. The school housed 23 pupils at the time, ranging from 9 to 17 years.

STATE CLOSES SHARON BANK

SHARON, Pa., Nov. 13.—The Dollar Title and Trust was closed this morning by Peter Cameron, state banking head. "Large defalcations" was the reason, Cameron announced.

Ralph Matthews, 34, cashier of the bank, was placed under arrest and has been lodged in the Mercer jail. It was said the shortage was around $125,000. The cashier is under bond for $160,000.

The bank, organized eight years ago with Charles Flowers, real estate man and contractor, as president, took over the old Hamory Bank. It occupied the city's largest building.

Matthews is accused of juggling the mortgage accounts since August, 1928, and using the money to play the stock market. He is reported to have told Flowers and police that he planned to commit suicide last Tuesday, while on a hunting trip, but changed his mind because of his wife and his three children.

Author Child, 'Disgusted,' Bolts Parley Over Court

BOSTON, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Richard Washburn Child, author and diplomat, today walked out of a meeting of the Institute of Current International Problems of the United States, at which he was to have given a 35-minute address, with the explanation to newspapermen that he "was disgusted."

Child, who was to have spoken in opposition to America's adherence to the World Court of International Justice of the League of Nations, was introduced by Prof. William Allan Neilson, president of Smith College, after Prof. Manley O. Hudson, of Harvard, authority on international law, had traced the development of the league court and favored American participation.

Child said:

"I am just going to ask one question. You can talk about the legal effect of our adherence to the World Court. You can go through the Root formula, in fact all the formulae, but what's going to happen in case the league asks an advisory opinion of a body of which we are members and we exercise our privilege of getting out?"

"First, there will be an uproar in the Senate. Then there will be racial difficulties in the country. In fact, we will be in a nice trap. That's the whole story and that's all I've got to say."

Afterward he told newspapermen:

"I was disgusted. We are not members of the World Court and we should not join the World Court. But all we heard was the manner in which World Court judges were elected. I couldn't stand it any longer."

UNIONTOWN MAN CRAZED BY FEAR OF POVERTY

Badly Wounded Wife Alone Survives as Uniontown Financier Shoots Family

UNIONTOWN, Pa., Nov. 13.—Crazed by fear of the poorhouse, R. W. Playford, 65, prominent attorney and banker, shot and killed his three daughters, probably fatally wounded his wife and ended his own life in his imposing residence, "Elm Crest," early today.

Nancy, 13; Margaret, 10, and Pauline, 9, are dead from bullet wounds in the head.

The wife and mother, Mrs. Nancy Stirling Playford, 45, a leader of Uniontown's most exclusive social set and a niece of Admiral Yates Stirling, of the U. S. Navy, with a bullet wound in her temple, was said to have a fighting chance for life late today.

Beside the bed of his wife, Playford was found dead, a revolver near his right hand. In it were five empty shells, mute tokens of death.

MAID HEARS SHOTS

Playford's dread of poverty was a delusion, his friends assert, as he was known to be wealthy.

Viola White, employed as a maid, told Dr. S. A. Baltz, coroner, that she was dressing shortly before 7 o'clock this morning when she heard a report which she believed came from the radio on the first floor. She paid no attention to it.

An instant later she heard a noise in the second floor hallway. Looking out, she said she saw Playford, revolver in hand, run-

WELFARE DRIVE NETS $582,880

Over one-third of the $1,520,248 asked for the Welfare Fund was reported by the 8,000 volunteer workers who began a canvass yesterday to secure the budget that 40 organizations will distribute in aiding unemployed and needy persons in Allegheny County during the coming year.

The amount reported subscribed at today's meeting of the drive was $582,880. Of this sum, $134,081 was pledged today. Only 4.6 per cent of the total fund goes for administration and campaign expenses.

Omission of the decimal point through a typographical error in an edition yesterday made it appear that 46 per cent went for administration—ten times the correct amount.

The "special division" in the campaign army, reporting individual subscriptions of $500 or more, received money and pledges for $315,125.

In exclusive Sewickley, $76,085 was added to the fund's collections and pledges.

The central division, covering downtown Pittsburgh, and collecting subscriptions over $50, reported $44,318.50.

The employes' division, representing workers in industrial plants throughout the Greater Pittsburgh district, reported $2,803.30.

Richey Goes Hunting For Hoover Turkey

Leaders of All Factions Aim To Hasten Solution of Unemployment Problem

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A tentative legislative program for the "lame duck" session of the Seventy-first Congress, which convenes December 1, features appropriation bills and unemployment relief measures, while banning all controversial matters, it was learned today.

The tentative program, submitted to President Hoover by Senator McNary, of Oregon, assistant Republican leader of the Senate, would sidetrack the World Court, all prohibition measures resulting from the anticipated report of the Wickersham law enforcement commission and some highly important bills still pending from earlier sessions of the same Congress.

TO CONFER AGAIN

McNary was to confer again with the President during the day and may get Mr. Hoover's final approval of the program. Unless the President desires action on other legislation the program would simply include:

1. Passage of the nearly $5,000,000,000 of departmental and bureau appropriation bills, necessary for operation of the government during the fiscal year beginning next July 1.

2. Speeding the government's public works program by ordering immediate expenditure of previously authorized funds on public buildings, flood control, inland waterway projects and federal roads.

3. Final enactment after 10 years of the Norris Muscle Shoals bill, providing for government operation of the $100,000,000 project and fertilizer plant in Alabama.

HARMONY SOUGHT

The desire of leaders of all factions to avoid controversial legislation so that the session can be devoted to solving the unemployment problem, probably will delay World Court action for another year. The President has been silent recently about his plans and his failure to announce, in his Armistice Day speech, that he would send the protocol to the Senate next month, was taken to indicate the contrary.

Foes of the World Court declare they can muster enough votes to reject the amended proposal of adherence. It may be the President agrees with them and that the Senate in the next Congress will be friendlier to the court. If he does send it up to the Senate, a prolonged debate will follow and other legislation will die.

MUST AVOID BATTLE

All leaders agree they must avoid a battle over prohibition. Consequently, there seems little likelihood of action on any recommendation of the Wickersham commission, particularly if that body should propose a loosening of the dry law.

The Muscle Shoals legislature, over which Senate and House have fought for a decade, may be settled peacefully. Senate leaders believe the House will recede from its demand for private operation of the project and accept either the government-operation plan or a slightly modified Senate bill. If the House insists on its previous stand, this legislation, too, will die.

There may be some agitation over continuing income tax reductions for another year. It will depend principally on the Treasury's attitude. If Secretary Mellon recommends a continued reduction, there will be no controversy and the authorization enacted without delay. Should he insist on restoring the higher rates, no legislation is necessary and, while both Senate and House may stage debates on the subject, it will not interfere much with the legislative program.

Duke of Gloucester Starts Hunting Trip

ADDIS ABABA, Abyssinia, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The Duke of Gloucester, who had represented England at the coronation of Emperor Haile Selassie, left the Abyssinian capital by special train on a hunting trip in the interior of Africa.

The duke will spend three weeks in pursuit of the nyala, a rare specie of animal. He plans to return to Addis Ababa on December 2, preparatory to embarking for England.

Drys and Antis Favor Showdown In '32

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—A climax in 1932 for prohibition's career in national politics appeared today the objective of its opponents and some of its supporters.

Either as an issue between the parties in the presidential election or in the form of a popular referendum, a 1932 showdown has been advocated in statements from both anti-drys and drys in Congress.

Now it has developed some of the prohibition-supporting members of the President's law enforcement commission would like an expression of popular sentiment on the dry law, after it has had 10 years of trial.

The prohibition clamor, which had risen to the pitch of published forecasts that Senator Fess, of Ohio, would resign as chairman of the Republican National Committee because of his active dry stand, drew a denial from him last night.

The close wall of secrecy surrounding the law enforcement commission's efforts to draw up a report for the President on prohibition has let out word from dry members of the group that "astounding" things have been discovered. But none would go to the length of indicating to what conclusion the surprises led.

Yesterday Representative Beedy (Rep.), Maine, a supporter of prohibition, joined those favoring a "thorough discussion" of prohibition in the 1932 campaign, while Representative Linthicum, of Maryland, predicted the Seventy-third Congress, meeting in 1933, would adopt a resolution to repeal the Eighteenth Amendment.

NO MORE ROWS, GIRL PROMISES

Florence Stevenson, 16, of 5143 Carnegie street, promised Magistrate T. D. Jones in Morals Court today that she wouldn't argue any more with her parents or indulge in the water that doesn't freeze, court records reveal.

Florence said she found a bottle in a friend's car Tuesday night and drank the liquor after she got home. Then she suffered a toothache and tried to doctor it with iodine. The rum made her ill, she said. Her parents rushed her to St. Francis Hospital, where no evidence of poison was found. Police were called and Florence was jailed on a charge of disorderly conduct.

Magistrate Jones discharged her.

PROBE BOMBING OF TEACHER

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Nov. 13.—(INS.)—An almost complete absence of tangible clues today served to baffle authorities in their search for an explanation of the bomb explosion which mangled W. F. Heidergott, Purdue University instructor in practical mechanics.

Heidergott, fighting for his life in St. Elizabeth's Hospital here, told police he knew of no motive that might explain the terrific explosion which interrupted the instructor's efforts to start his automobile yesterday.

Police Chief John Krutch and E. L. Osborne, chief of the Indiana State Bureau of Crime, went to Indianapolis to question the wife of Heidergott. She told the investigators she knows of no reason for an attempt upon her husband's life.

SLUMP BLAMED ON MELLON BY BROOKHART

Iowa Senator, Here, Scores Treasury Head, Wall St. For Country's Depression

United States Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, in an interview here today, attacked Andrew W. Mellon, secretary of the treasury, as the man most responsible of the present business depression, ridiculed President Hoover's administration and classed himself as a man "much needed" in the Senate next year.

The dry Insurgent Republican Senator came here to deliver an address tonight to the Pittsburgh Association of Manufacturers' Representatives in the William Penn Hotel. He will return to Washington immediately afterwards.

BLAMES MELLON

Accusing Mellon of personal domination of the political situation in the nation and of being the greatest cause of business depression, Brookhart said:

"I think Mellon and his crowd of Wall street gamblers have dominated the field long enough. The recent election showed the day of reckoning at hand. The handwriting is on the wall. Mellon has felt the last of his dictatorial power and soon will be a negligible factor in national politics.

"When the Democrats won so many seats at the recent election the Wall street wise guys, who dominate both parties, put their playboys—Al Smith, James J. Cox and John J. Raskob—at work to tell the gullible voters the fracas was just a 'sham battle,' and that harmony would be the keynote of the two parties in the Senate. Just watch what happens when the Senate convenes. Such talk is a lot of poppycock."

PARTY NO FACTOR

The Senator says he plans to vote on every question in the Senate on its merits. Party affiliation means nothing to him, he says.

Railroad, corporation, Federal Reserve and banking laws have done more than anything else to lead up to the business depression, the fiery Iowan believes. Such laws, he says, have a tendency to create monopolies and trusts, putting the control of much money into the hands of a few and "squeezing out the small fry."

Wall Street, he charges, so dominates the financial field with excessive brokers' loans, that the big banks are run for the benefit of gamblers and speculators instead of for legitimate business.

He was asked:

"Has President Hoover's term in office been successful?

Twisting his lips in his characteristic manner he replied:

"No. Unemployment shows it hasn't."

One Square Thing In Fight Game; That's the Ring

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Gene Tunney won his half-million dollar law clinch. The trial proved:

About the only thing square about the fight game is the shape of the ring.

No fight was ever started without the help of a good diplomat.

About the only thing the fighters do in the big carnival is to supply the gestures.

Fights are won and lost in the manager's office. When they charge the public fifty dollars to see a championship they are overtaxing them for the upkeep of an automobile that is in dead storage.

The world can do without a heavyweight champion: An empty house is better than a bad tenant.

The only way to carve a Thanksgiving turkey is to stab it in the back and the dark.

Washing dirty linen in public is always astonishing when the public discovers that it has already paid the laundry bill.

One of the contestants was so crooked that a dog would have to turn around to bite him twice on the same leg.

ning from the room where Margaret and Pauline had slept in twin beds. As he entered the room occupied by himself and his wife, a shot rang out.

WIFE FIRST VICTIM

Playford is believed first to have shot his wife as she lay asleep, then visited in turn the room occupied by Nancy and that by Margaret and Pauline.

Nancy was found propped in bed, dead, her right index finger on a line of an opened school book. An electric light suspended from the head of her bed was burning. Her life had been snuffed out as she was studying her lessons for today.

An open book was found beside Pauline. She and Margaret died within an hour. Physicians said there was no hope for Mrs. Playford. Each had been shot once in the temple.

District Attorney Adams said Playford was temporarily insane. He had been worried and very nervous recently. The prosecutor said Playford's financial condition was not as bad as he supposed. He bought stocks, but not on margin, his close associates said.

The district attorney said:

"Playford was a high class, kind-hearted and lovable gentleman."

Coroner Baltz concurred that it was a case of murder and suicide while temporarily insane.

FEARED POVERTY

Friends of Playford said he had remarked that he feared his family might have to go to the poorhouse and that he might lose his mind because of business worries.

Of an old family, Playford, who, was president of his class at Yale, occupied the top rung of the social ladder. He was a vestryman in St. Peter's Episcopal Church. His wife came from a socially prominent Baltimore family.

The Playford home is a large $90,000 gray brick structure trimmed in stone and sitting far back from the street in Oakland avenue, surrounded by spacious lawns and trees.

NIECE OF ADMIRAL

BALTIMORE, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Mrs. R. W. Playford, probably fatally wounded by her husband at Uniontown today as he killed his three daughters and himself, is a member of a prominent Baltimore family and the grand niece of the late Admiral Yates Stirling, naval officer whose family has given three admirals to the Navy.

She was, before her marriage, Nancy Stirling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Archibald Stirling, and made her debut in Baltimore. Her marriage to Playford was a brilliant social event.

Playford's brother, Charles, is in business in Baltimore.

The petition set forth that the opinion of the league and membership, the federal wat power act and "25 years of co servation effort" were in jeopard due to an opinion of Attorn General Mitchell published Se tember 22. The attorney ge eral's opinion dealt with the ap plication of the Appalachia Power Company, and held th the Appalachian company migh be given a "minor" license fr from the accounting and valua tion provisions of the feder water power act of 1920.

King and his associates asserte in their petition that should th opinion be uncontested, "a dire invitation to power companie generally to attack the valuatio provisions, which are the chie public safeguards in the powe act," would result. A statemen said:

Vets Praise Marion Davies For Armistice Party

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—(Universal)—Universal satisfaction was being expressed on all sides today as the aftermath of the veterans' party given at the Biltmore hotel Armistice night by Miss Marion Davies.

Army and Navy veterans and their ladies were generous with their praise of the beautiful motion picture star who was hostess to 3,700 of them.

Veterans of all World War divisions joined in praising Colonel Marion Davies, who holds that honorary rank in the famous 26th Infantry of the equally famous First Division.

And the beautiful First Division colors, presented to that organization by Miss Davies were today under glass and installed in the Society of the First Division quarters here, always to be treasured by the veterans of that combat division.

Capt. C. D. Symes, president of the Southern California sector, said:

"These division colors, along with the beautiful American flag, which Miss Davies so generously gave our division society, are now our most treasured possession."

Beaten, Burned, Stabbed, Wife's Suit Charges

Cave man tactics of her husband included hitting her so hard on one occasion that she struck her head on a doorknob, and at another time loosened three of her front teeth, burning her with a cigaret, stabbing her with a fork and pulling her hair, alleged Mrs. Flora S. Swaney, of Hampton Hall apartments, Dithridge street, in her divorce against Walter G. Swaney, of West Main street. He is vice president of the Kerotest Company.

In addition to the alleged acts of violence, Mrs. Swaney claims in a bill of particulars filed yesterday, that her husband used vile language, pulled the telephone from the wall and is infatuated with another woman living in Pittsburgh.

She recently was awarded $450 monthly alimony after a hearing which disclosed Swaney's income is about $25,000 a year. They were married October 18, 1919, and Swaney is alleged to have left her in October, 1928.

M'GOVERN ASKS RELIEF ACTION

Back from the meeting of Gov.-elect Pinchot's unemployment commission in Philadelphia, County Commissioner Charles C. McGovern told his colleagues on the board of commissioners that Allegheny County is rich enough to spend $5,000,000 in a constructive program of relief.

The city seems to have stepped out ahead of the county in relief work, in McGovern's opinion, but the time is coming when the county and other officials must grapple with relief, seasonal depressions and other economic problems in a more comprehensive way than at present, he said.

Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong mildly took issue with McGovern, pointing out that the city is getting a whole lot more publicity for spending less money than the county. Armstrong said:

"We already have made $600,000 available for work. The city has engine houses and police stations to distribute from, but we are working out plans keeping men at work and providing more work for those without jobs."

CLARA'S EX-AIDE 'TELLS ALL'

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—There's a new boy friend in the glamorous life of Clara Bow, flaming-haired siren of the screen, but he will remain anonymous for the present, according to Miss Daisy Devoe, the "It" girl's secretary and companion, who was out of a job today.

Miss Devoe blames the new "boy friend" for the break, and said she would attempt to see Miss Bow to determine whether the "separation" is to be permanent. She explained:

"Clara didn't even tell me she was through with me. I learned of it through this new man, and I think it was a plenty tough deal for me."

Miss Bow, however, declared emphatically that she had "fired" Miss Devoe, and added a truculent "What of it?" when interviewed.

TWO MEN DIE IN POLICE CELLS

John Anderson, 51, of St. Marys, O., was found dead in a cell at the Oakmont Police Station early today, according to a report of Sergt. Edward Plummer, of Oakmont police, to the coroner's office.

Anderson was arrested by Constable Samuel Anderson at Unity on an intoxication charge and lodged in the Oakmont station yesterday afternoon after a physician had examined him. Plummer said. A post-mortem examination will be made to determine the cause of death.

Frank Morrow, 33, of East Pittsburgh, died last night in the county jail, where he was serving a 14-day sentence for drunkenness, according to the coroner's report. An autopsy performed by Dr. J. W. McMeans, coroner's physician, disclosed the cause as pneumonia.

CAPONE SOUGHT IN LOS ANGELES

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The Examiner says Al Capone, notorious Chicago gangster, arrived here last Sunday night under an assumed name.

Capone visited here two years ago, but was given a police escort to an outbound train.

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Frank Rio, bodyguard of Scarface Al Capone, was today sentenced to six months in the county jail for contempt of court by Municipal Judge John Lyle, "terror of gangsters." Rio had cursed at Gordon Townsend, Lyle's bailiff.

CHURCH SCORES HALL SITE

The church committee of St. Paul's Cathedral, in a letter to the County Commissioners, today protested against the Duquesne Garden property as a proposed site for the Town Hall. If the hall is placed there, the letter says, the church will be affronted, services will be interfered with and a new menace to school children will occur.

The letter is signed by Judge Ambrose B. Reid, F. A. Keating, the Rev. William J. McMullen, Eugene S. Reilly and Paul C. Dunlevy.

PREPARE DO-X FOR NEXT HOP

CALSHOT, England, Nov. 13.—The German seaplane, DO-X, will leave tomorrow morning for Bordeaux, next stop on its projected flight to New York from Altenrhein, Switerland.

After the brief thrill of seeing the Prince of Wales, Britain's future king, pilot the huge ship with his own hand during a 25-minute flight over Southampton water, the crew of the DO-X returned today to preparation of the liner for continuation of its flight to the United States.

All persons connected with the DO-X agreed today that His Royal Highness did an expert job during the 10 minutes he piloted the 12-motored air liner.

97 FINED AFTER VICE RAIDS

Ninety-seven persons arrested early this morning and late last night in a series of raids on downtown and Hill district drinking resorts, disorderly houses, gambling establishments and a "distillery," paid fines amounting to $700 this morning in Central Police and Morals Courts.

The raids were conducted by two squads of police under Lieuts. Jack Lavery and Thomas Gross by orders of Inspector Albert Beebe.

In one of the raids a private patrolman, Battle Keys, Negro, was arrested. Inspector Beebe confiscated Keys' credentials and badge this morning.

'NUMBERS' JURY DEADLOCKS

After being out for nearly 24 hours, a jury in a clearing house "numbers" trial reported today no agreement and was discharged by Visiting Judge J. A. McLaughry, of Mercer County.

Joseph Penn, Negro, Wylie avenue store owner, was arrested by a constable from Alderman Martin J. Griffin's office, charged with conducting a lottery. The constable testified he bought a "numbers" ticket in Penn's store. Penn denied that he or anyone connected with his business had ever sold lottery tickets.

CRASHES END RECORD QUEST

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—A plane which Capt. John S. Donaldson and Edward Weimer took off yesterday in an endurance flight crashed in flames near Jamaica Bay this morning.

Weimer suffered a fractured foot and a lacerated eye, but Capt. Donaldson was not injured. The plane burned and was a total loss.

Donaldson's refueling ship fell into Jamaica Bay earlier in the morning and sank. The pilots, Charles S. Soule and George Adams, were rescued by a rowboat.

SUICIDE WRITES, AWAITING END

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Six pages of scrawled penmanship in which Theron Cooper, owner of a chain of book stores, described his experiences as he awaited death by asphyxiation, formed the principal evidence today in the wealthy merchant's suicide as authorities ordered an inquest. One paragraph of the note read:

"I have heard that gas was an easy and quick way to die, but I have been writing now for 45 minutes and am still able to scribble."

Cooper apparently had sealed the kitchen doors and windows and sat down with pen and paper to wait until gas from the kitchen stove halted his writing.

As police reconstruct the scene, Cooper rose from his chair after nearly an hour to assure himself that the jets were open. The gas suddenly overcame him, and then he fell dead on the floor.

FATE OF INDIA BEFORE PARLEY

LONDON, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—With the meeting in adjournment following its brilliant opening session in the Royal Gallery of the House of Lords, delegates to the Round Table Conference on India laid plans today for the first business session at St. James' palace on Monday.

In the wake of the magnificent pomp and ceremony with which the momentous conference was opened by King George yesterday, there stood out one salient question.

The opening session revealed that the British crown and the British government are fully in accord with the demand of India for self-government. The question that stood out could be summed up in two words: "But when?"

It is almost a foregone conclusion that the Indian delegates will not temporize. They will submit argumentative proof in support of their contention that there is only one time to grant this concession, and that time is the present.

That a new status will evolve from the conference is a fact beyond all shadow of doubt. Many political observers see open Indian rebellion as the only alternative to a self-government compromise, and there are some who express keen anxiety as to whether even this will suffice to bring India's flaming discontent to an end.

Foreign Trade Branches Defended by Coolidge

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

Much of the criticism of the starting of foreign branches by our industries is short sighted. All the business on earth cannot be done within the confines of the United States. On disadvantage in world trade is the lower standards of living in other countries. Foreign branches will carry our methods and standards, which will be contagious. Pressure of low standard production will be reduced. International finance will be more stable.

Calvin Coolidge

Usually foreign branches will use our machinery and raw materials and increase local prosperity. That will make customers who are better able to absorb our exports. Meantime the tariff gives the advantage in our markets to domestic producers.

The problem has a broader aspect. It is our duty to take care of our own people. That we can do. But a backward, undeveloped world, instead of being a help is a menace. Peace requires arrangements by which other people can prosper. It is our duty to contribute of our capital and our skill to that prosperity. Such a course in the end will provide more employment, increase our material welfare, and give us the satisfaction of having borne our part of the burden of civilization.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

Aimee, Hiding Identity, Barred From Cuba

HAVANA, Nov. 13. — (AP.) — Aimee Semple McPherson, who refused to leave the steamer Toloa last night when the authorities insisted that she admit having come from Panama under the fictitious name of "Betty Adams" sailed for New York aboard the Toloa today.

Immigration officials asserted "Betty Adams" was registered aboard the ship as an English woman.

The evangelist was indignant with newspapermen who revealed her identity to the purser of the ship.

Mrs. McPherson insisted that her name was Adams, but did not furnish immigration officials with anything to identify her under that name.

Passengers said Mrs. McPherson had enjoyed the trip up from Panama, once posing in the uniform of the chief engineer for amateur photographers. She refused to pose for the press photographers, however.

THE GOVERNMENT has broken up a ring dealing in drugs to the tune of millions. $50,000 worth of narcotics were sold each week in laundries and restaurants in New York City.

Other drugs will be seized, and other men will go to jail, but the drug trade will not be broken up. When men can sell for hundreds of dollars profit the contents of an overcoat pocket, men will be found to do the selling, especially as they themselves are often drug addicts.

45 INJURED, 200 JAILED IN RIOTS

BOGOTA, Colombia, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—A series of apparently unrelated incidents gave police one of their busiest days, put 45 persons with stab wounds in hospitals and more than 200 persons in jail.

Police attributed the disorders to excessive drinking of a favorite concoction known as "chicha." An extra judge was added to the police court to handle the deluge of cases.

In one case a riot in which more than 50 persons took part and in which two policemen were badly beaten resulted when the officers attempted to interfere in a quarrel between a man and wife. In another riot in the poorer section of the city more than a score of persons were injured before police with rifles restored order.

THE man who scorns good grooming makes a big mistake. Torn fingernails, cracked and grimy hands, a careless shave or an unclean skin spoil a man's chances for success.

A clean healthy appearance is worth everything. And you need only one simple, old fashioned familiar preparation to have them all. "Vaseline" Petroleum Jelly. You'll probably find it right in your bathroom. If not, get a tube or jar from the nearest store.

To keep the hands in good condition, scrub with a stiff brush and soapy water. Then apply "Vaseline" Jelly liberally and massage your hands (exactly as if you were washing them). Work the Jelly into the base of the nails. Then wipe off and wash quickly. Your hands will emerge looking clean and fresh, like the hands of an executive, not a day laborer.

In the morning apply a film of "Vaseline" Jelly to the face before lathering. It not only gives you a clean, close, comfortable shave, but it cleanses the skin. Improves its texture. Try these two simple things.

WALTER WINCHELL
On Broadway

(Copyright, 1930, by Walter Winchell, Inc.)

Broadwaycasting

(Some part of it may be "colored")

Good evening, ladies and gentlemen and other hiss-ters in. The unemployerment situ-a-way-shun is barely anything to litter about, but why not find the jollier side of things? Take the gag about the apple-peddler who experienced his first problem with competition in front of the Paramount edifice. He was yelling: Apples, five cents each!" A dialectician who had placed his apple box almost next to him logged him with: "Eppies, de best eppies, seex for a quitter!" Incidentally, hundreds of readers have suggested that the apple-selling-idea-to-relieve-the-unemployed be investigated. I dismiss it on the ground that even if it is a racket, it is giving many a lad a chance to make a dollar.

I asked one of the apple selling fellows if he made much coin standing on the corner from 7 a. m. till 11 p. m. every day. He said he made a profit of $2 on each box and that he sold at least three boxes of apples a day. That's pretty good money. Then I asked him how much the Apple Growers' Ass'n charged him for a box of apples.

"Well," he said, "de pay 'em $2.75 a box and that's wholesale."

Mebbeso. But I learn, too, that the first week of the apple selling idea the growers charged the boys $1.75 a box. Then when the newspaper publicity aroused the sympathy of the passersby, the growers tilted the price to $2. The third week the growers raised it another two-bits to $2.25. That burns me up and knocks me cold. In fewer words, the great demand for apples gave the growers' ass'n a pretty idea—to reap a harvest at the expense of the unemployed when they might contribute a little and let the boys have the apples for $1.75, just as they did during the first week.

If the public keeps helping the fellows on the corners the growers will keep raising the price and lowering the profits of the unemployed who shiver on street corners from 7 in the morning to almost midnight.

It would make some of us believe that all was not phoney with Big Business if the apple-sauce growers didn't try to imitate the gyp ticket speculators when it comes to aiding charity.

However, our guestar for this eve'g is Ada Brown, who enchanted the premiere-nighters of "Brown Buddies" with "When a Black Man's Blue," which she will delight you with now, (Song here.) Thanks so much, Miss Brown. I am certain they regret that I am replacing you.

Among other chit-chat is that Reginald Hammerstein and Frances ("Sketch Book") Collette are plotting to have it Parson'd . . . That the Roscoe Ails, she was Shirley Dahl, are being blessed-evented—as are the Tommy Gordons (Josephine Skoda), the Nils Asthers (Vivian Duncan) and the J. Parkers of L. I., she was Margie O'Neill, of the musicalah-de-dahs. Mr. Ails, if you recall your front pages, was once reported as being the pappy of a famous Eugenic baby.

It might startle you to know that Broadway is busy sharpening its rusty knife to stab a certain author when he isn't looking. I mean that Broadway and its hissers are whispering that the author of a sensational hit show didn't write it. But that a woman collaborator did most of it and that she is the type of person who doesn't care about glory, which is why she hasn't made a scene—preferring to write them.

The George Carruthers (she was Catherine Calvert, one of the better actresses at one time) are judge-telling it. The new heart being Stella Leslie . . . Jim Busch, former Equitable monarch, and now better known as a big golf and backgammon man, has been out with Irene Delroy three times in one week, which is romantic news to chit-chatterers like That Winchell Person.

Peggy Joyce never remained so long in Yurrup. I hear the chief reason is Maximillian Steele, recently reported as being melted from Marion Fairbanks' . . . The report that Gilbert Seldes' contract is up with his paper in two months is not kosher. The well-known dramatic critic's agreement runs until May 15th, according to the records . . . There has been much discussion over Schwartz, of Notre Dame's eleven, which is known as "The Fighting Irish" . . . Many are under the impression that Schwartz is Joosh, which he ain't not!—to coin a new set of words.

Buddy Rogers, if you please, doesn't wear a belt or suspenders. How does he keep up his pants? . . . He wears a sash, my dahs! . . . Dorothea Bryant's altar anklingwith Richard L. Scarr will take place during the first March week, when is when her third tome, "Jim Faulkner, Pirate," will be released . . . By the way, Verna Carleton is betrothed to another and not to Geo. Gerdie of The World, as report had it.

"Dear Mr. Winchell: J. Mitchel's Mrs. is most anxious that you rectify the statement concerning me and her husband honeying it. My new honey (and what a honey) happens to be his partner, J. Durant. My sincerest wishes."

Things I. N. K. 'Til Now.

Mary Lewis, the Metropera star, who recently had husband trouble via the couria, is in love again . . . The love interest being Alexander, who is assistant to Fred (Bird Cage Trick) Keating, and they tell me that this romance is hotter than too hot . . . Lily Damita's newest "cute" stuff is burning the wrists of her genman frens with her cigies . . . This is so they will always remember her when they look at the scar . . . Bugs Baer, the newspaper comedian (whose mother died last week) is gravely ill of pneumonia.

It pains me to report that Lila Lee, who was supposed to leave the ailing room in six months, hasn't left the bed once and hasn't gained a pound . . . Phil Plant is dying, which I hope is a lie.

Harry Hershfield offers you the gag about the vaudeville strong man whose big feature was queezing a lemon dry with his paws and then offering $100 to anyone in the audience who could get another drop out of it. A little Joosh feller said he'd like to try. Proceeding to the stage he took the already squeezed-dry lemon and got six more drops from it.

"Golly!" golly'd the strong man, "who are you anyway?"

"I'm the margin clerk in Wall street!" he said.

Harry Rosenthal and Mary Brown Warburton are studying to be snobs . . . The John Harriman (Anna Foley) divorce decision has been secretly reserved . . . The happiest scoopee of them all is that Helen Kane, the boop-oop-adoop-dooper, has reconciled with Joe, her husband.

And now I must leave you until next week. Until then I remain the Black Peep of the Winchells, who certainly knows his Broadway, and oh, what Broadway knows about me!!!

'Hair-Growing' Cap Manufacturer Fined

PEORIA, Ill., Nov. 13.—Some 18,000 Americans have bought electric skull caps in an effort to make their hair grow. This was revealed at the trial of Frederick P. Goodwin, of Strawn, Ill., who was fined $3,000 for using the mails to defraud.

Sun-Telegraph Doll Lady Begins Yuletide Campaign

Dear Little Girls:

How time flies! Do you know that it will be Christmas six weeks from today?

Like all other little girls, I suppose you have set your heart on having a new dolly by that time and I have already been assured that many of you have dreams of possessing one of my wonder "Tickletoes" dolls.

There are so many "Dads" out of work this year that there won't be as many little dollies as usual for the little girls, but I am in Pittsburgh with my "Tickletoes" just to take care of this situation.

I am making my "Tickletoes" so easy to get that any little girl can have one before the holidays. Many little girls are themselves big and smart enough to do just what I ask of them—others, the little tots, will have to ask for the help of their parents and friends.

"Tickletoes" is a wonder doll in every sense of the word. She's big, pretty and bright-eyed. She can bend her arms, bend her legs and go to sleep when you put her to bed. She cries with one voice when you squeeze her right knee; you have a second voice when you squeeze the left knee, and she cries when you turn her over. Her arms and legs are made of flexible rubber, and you can give her a bath every Saturday night—if you want to. And "Tickletoes" is beautifully dressed—just the kind of a big, lovable doll that you will want for a playmate.

Of course you all want to know how you can get my "Tickletoes" for your very own—to love and to keep. All you have to do is to put your name and address on the coupon published herewith and I'll send you a letter telling just what you have to do.

And it's to be so easy to get a "Tickletoes" dolly before Christmas you'll be surprised. Now, little girls, don't wait until it is too late. Mail your coupon today to the

This Coat for Hard Service

An Extra Special for Misses

AUTOS LISTED FOR '31 DROP

HARRISBURG, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Registration of motor vehicles last month for 1931 fell off nearly 34 per cent from the advance licensure of October, 1929.

Serving as a reflection of the present depression, figures announced by the State Bureau of Motor Vehicles on 1931 registration show applications for only 118,437 passenger motor cars have thus far been received, a 32.5 per cent drop from the business handled by the bureau during the same month last year. Similarly, applications for trucks, busses and other vehicles were fewer than a year ago, the total decrease amounting to 33.9 per cent.

The total passenger car registration for 1930, despite a drop of more than 16 per cent during October, was reported as 1,528,914, an increase of 21,494 over the 1929 registration for the same period. Only 14,141 passenger automobiles were issued 1930 licenses last month in contrast to 16,908 during the same month last year.

Student Duel Victor Gets 2-Year Term

MUNICH, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—For causing the death of a fellow student in a duel with swords, Heinz Koch was sentenced to two years' detention in a fortress.

While other courts have held that students' duels come under the category of sport, the Munich Criminal Court by its verdict held the duel to be a fight with lethal weapons.

Greensburg Drum Corps Ruled Winner

GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 13.—The Drum and Bugle Corps of the Robert G. Kotouch Post of the American Legion of Greensburg has been awarded first prize in the competition at Monessen, scoring a total of 96.5 points.

The Union Legion corps was awarded second with 91 points and California third with 90.

WRIT MAY BAN 400 BUSES

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(INS.)—Four hundred city buses which annually carry about 93,000,000 passengers are to be ordered off the streets of New York under the terms of a temporary injunction granted by Supreme Court Justice Charles J. Dodd.

The date on which the injunction is to go into effect is to be decided at a conference to be held soon.

The buses are operated by companies and individuals under temporary emergency permits, revocable within 24 hours.

The injunction was obtained as the result of a taxpayer's suit brought by an attorney, who charged in his petition that "favored individuals" were being granted emergency permits.

Abandonment of the bus lines, it was claimed by the bus companies, would practically isolate large suburban sections where trolley lines have been replaced.

Banks In Nashville Vote for Merger

Resources of the new institution approximate $86,000,000, with other millions in trust funds.

"Danderine" dissolves the Crust of Dandruff

So Easy to Use! It Soothes, Tones Scalp; Gives New Life to Hair!

Dandruff is unsightly! And what is worse, it steals life itself from the hair; makes it dull, brittle, scraggy; starts it to falling out; makes you gray before your time.

Why tolerate this? There's no use when you can get "Danderine" from any drugstore for just a few cents.

Danderine is no experiment. It has proven its merit by years of use and popularity. It dissolves the crust of dandruff in a hurry. The scalp is cleansed, soothed and toned by the first application. Excess oil is removed from the hair; its own natural color is brought out marvelously; it is soon sparkling with new life and lustre. Used consistently, Danderine keeps the scalp in the pink of condition; encourages the hair to grow long, thick, more youthful looking.

Five million bottles used a year shows Danderine's popularity! And you won't wonder at this when you learn its easy use and see how quickly it gives health to the scalp and vigor and youthful appearance to the hair!

BELL CO. SEEKS RURAL LINE

Fifty stockholders of the Dorseyville Telephone Company will attend a special meeting called by the board of directors for November 19 to approve or disapprove the sale of their company to the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania.

According to W. F. Weber, president of the Dorseyville company, the Bell company has been after their holdings and property for more than a year. The board had several meetings with representatives of the Bell company and are willing to dispose of the line providing the stockholders are satisfied.

The Dorseyville company, established 25 years ago, has a central equipment containing more than 200 lines, with 150 subscribers. The price asked is about $20,000. President Weber said the Bell company intends to develop that territory and give extended service.

FLAT RATES ON WATER STAND

Council yesterday voted to fix the flat water rates at the same figures as last year.

The scale is a sliding one, depending upon the use to which the property is put, the number of spigots and baths, the number of horses in a livery stable and scores of other specifications.

The charge for domestic use is $1.50 for one room and $1 additional for each additional room except bath rooms. Bathtubs are charged $2, but shower baths are rated at $5 each.

Muscular-Rheumatic Aches and Pains

DRAW them out with a "counter-irritant." Distressing muscular lumbago, soreness and stiffness—generally respond pleasantly to good old Musterole. Doctors call it a "counter-irritant," because it gets action and is not just a salve. Musterole helps bring soreness and pain to the surface, and thus gives natural relief. You can feel how its warming action penetrates and stimulates blood circulation. But do not stop with one application. Apply this soothing, cooling, healing ointment generously to the affected area once every hour for five hours. Used by millions for over 20 years. Recommended by many doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy; jars and tubes.

SUGAR YIELD IN COTTON, OATS

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Dr. W. C. Austin, head of the Loyola University department of medicine, announced his research had disclosed that an "excellent grade" of sugar can be made from the wood fiber in cotton seeds, and likewise from oat hulls.

The discovery, he said, should provide a new outlet for cotton and oat producers, who have seen demand for their products lessen, with silk stockings replacing cotton, and automobiles substituting for horses.

Austin, who has done much previous work concerned with sugar formation, said he was aided in his latest research by M. J. Sanikstons and C. J. Smalley, laboratory associates.

This Woman Fat and 40 Tells How She Reduced

Her Physical Attractiveness Compels Admiration

It was this way—I was reading the evening paper and right before my eyes was an article headed "How one woman lost 47 pounds of fat in three months" and you can just bet I woke up and got interested right away.

And all this woman did to lose all that fat was to take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast.

That seemed easy to me—I was sold on Kruschen Salts and took my first dose the next morning—that was four months ago.

Well, as you can all see, my fat is gone—I've gained a shapely figure—bright eyes—clear skin—and tireless energy—and I never felt better in my life.

Kruschen Salts (It's the Little Daily Dose That Does It) brings activity to mind and body—its rejuvenating influence causes the stomach, liver and bowels to do their work naturally and faultlessly.

There is nothing so good as Kruschen—(remember the name) taken every morning—it causes every organ, nerve, gland and fibre in the body to function naturally. One woman lost 19 pounds in four weeks.

A bottle of Kruschen Salts that lasts 4 weeks costs but 85 cents at any drug store in the world.

Mrs. Betty Luedeke, of Dayton, writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

"YOU HAVE DEMONSTRATED"

Says

PETER GRIMM

President of Wm. A. White & Sons. Four times President of the Real Estate Board of New York.

"The development of real estate values in America is always furthered by modern improvements. Only in that way has real estate become one of the premiere factors in America's economic growth.

"It is interesting to me to note that the same principle which dominates the development of real estate holds good in other fields, the principle which you have demonstrated by your use of the Ultra Violet Ray in the toasting process."

Peter Grimm

Everyone knows that sunshine mellows—that's why TOASTING includes the use of the Ultra Violet Ray. FIRE PENSION CLAIM FOUGHT

Harry E. Grieble, 925 Carson street, who retired two years ago as captain of No. 23 Engine Company, is not entitled to a pension because he entered the employ of the county when he retired, according to an answer filed in Common Pleas Court on behalf of the board of managers of the firemen's pension fund of Pittsburgh. Grieble had asked a writ of mandamus to compel payment of a pension.

The board, composed of the mayor, council president, controller, and other city officials, denied Grieble received $200 a month when he retired December 1, 1928. It averred he immediately entered the employ of Allegheny County in the department of the superintendent of buildings, and is still so employed.

The answer cited an amendment adopted in May, 1925, to the pension law, providing that members eligible to pension after January 1, 1925, who enter the employ of the United States, the county or sub-divisions of the city, forfeit their pension rights during such employment.

CHURCH TO OPEN NEW EDIFICE

Delays in assembling the mechanism will prevent the use next Sunday of the organ being installed in the new Mt. Lebanon Baptist Church, which edifice is to be dedicated that day. The Rev. Tuesday night will be "Community Night" and Wednesday the play "The Servant of the House" will be presented by the Dracomtra Players. HOLLYWOOD AND GOTHAM HAPPENINGS; NOTES ON LOCAL AMUSEMENTS

Actor in "Street Scene" Has Drama Library In His Head

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

AN ENCYCLOPEDIA of drama would be a good description of Max Montor, who is playing the part of Kaplan, the Hebrew radical in "Street Scene," at the Alvin Theater this week. He appears today before the classes of Pitt University to give a reading of Shakespeare's "King Lear." He has made such appearances at Columbia, Princeton, Cornell, Yale, Chicago University and a score of other great institutions of learning. And usually he gives the entire drama from beginning to end, interpreting every character himself—without a book.

George Seibel

Montor does this with three of Shakespeare's plays—"Hamlet," "Julius Caesar" and "Richard III." He does it with three of Goethe's plays — "Faust," "Iphigenie" and "Torquato Tasso." He does it with Schiller's "Don Carlos," with Hebbel's "Gyges," with Lessing's "Nathan" and with the "Oedipus" of Sophocles.

But if his audience should prefer to hear the "Oedipus" in Attic Greek, Herr Montor is ready to give it to them.

His mind is a library of dramatic literature. And he does not know single and separate parts, but entire plays. He could be star and prompter in any classic repertoire company.

INTERPRETS THE POETS

While the ten dramas listed above are his usual program, he varies them with pieces by Henrik Ibsen, Oscar Wilde, Gerhart Hauptmann, August Strindberg, Arthur Schnitzler, Hermann Sudermann and others.

Hundreds of poems are also stored in his prodigious memory. On the coming Sunday evening, before the Pittsburgh Technological Society, in the University Club, he will supply the entire program in an evening of German poetry, beginning with Schiller and closing with Schnitzler. About a dozen German poets of America will be represented, including Konrad Nies, Martin Drescher, Robert Reitzel and Victor Wicke.

All this is quite unsuspected by the people who see him in "Street Scene," delivering his harangues on capitalism from his window in the old brownstone front. Many have not heard the name of Max Montor before. But he has been famous in Germany for a generation, playing hundreds of parts in Berlin, Munich and Hamburg, and making frequent tours to other cities.

Born in Vienna, making his debut in Zurich as Mephistopheles, and acting parts like Peer Gynt and Cyrano in the leading European theaters, he was practically unknown to America until he came to our shores in 1923.

WITH EVA LE GALLIENNE

Montor's first appearance on Broadway was in Strindberg's "Dance of Death." Next he played Rosmer in Ibsen's "Rosmersholm." He appeared with Walter Hampden in "Hamlet," and took the leading role of Solness in Ibsen's "Master Builder" when Eva Le Gallienne revived that play for her Civic Repertory Theater.

It has been said of Montor that he is a whole theatrical company in one person. It would certainly be difficult to find any actor anywhere more versatile, or anybody with such a memory.

Give him three words from any part of Goethe's "Faust" and he will complete the passage.

And he'll do the same with almost every German dramatist and with Shakespeare. I've tested him.

He walks about the streets of Pittsburgh in golf costume and bare-headed. Perhaps you've met him and wondered at his high tragedy face. That was Max Montor, famous German actor, who has taken the part long played by Leo Bulgakov in "Street Scene."

GIANNINI TO SING AT TWO CONCERTS

Dusolina Giannini, Italian-American soprano, is to appear as soloist with the Detroit Orchestra in Syria Mosque tomorrow night and Saturday afternoon. Friday night she will sing the aria from "Jeanne d'Arc," by Tschaikowsky, and Saturday afternoon, "Ocean Thou Mighty Monster," from Oberon, by Weber. She will also sing a group of songs, with piano accompaniment, at both concerts.

A special concert for children also will be given by the Detroit Orchestra at Carnegie Music Hall, from 4 to 5 o'clock Friday afternoon. It will be conducted by Victor Kolar, and explanatory remarks will be made in advance of each number by Miss Edith Rhetts, educational director of the Detroit Orchestra.

Genevieve Tobin Reaches Film Stardom After Two Pictures

By HARRISON CARROLL

(Copyright, 1930, Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 13.

Stardom will come to Genevieve Tobin after two pictures, a record even for an experienced stage recruit.

Universal will award the actress this coveted distinction in "The Behavior of Mrs. Crane," an original screen story.

To many motion picture fans Genevieve Tobin is still an unknown figure. She shared honors with Rose Hobart in "A Lady Surrenders," and is just completing "Free Love," which is the final title of Sidney Howard's play, "Half Gods."

Genevieve Tobin

Oddly enough, Miss Tobin took her first motion picture test at the age of 8 years. Charlie Chaplin saw the actress and her sister, Vivian, in vaudeville and persuaded them to appear before the camera. Nothing came of it, however.

MORE EXCITING ANYWAY

The story of a current production required the leading man to carry the heroine up five flights of stairs.

Though she is one of the most exotic personalities in the film world, the star in question is no featherweight. In fact, the leading man was not able to get past the second landing.

But this is Hollywood. They promptly changed the action to have him chase her up the stairs.

But will he?

When Douglas Fairbanks returns from holidaying in St. Moritz, he says he will produce a picture with an oriental background.

Doug Fairbanks

Being a person of enthusiasm, Doug is not to be taken literally, but in this case he claims to be serious.

If the picture materializes, it will have only 30 per cent dialogue, according to Fairbanks. This bears out a theory held by the actor and a number of his associates in United Artists.

For Hard Coughs That Call For Super-Help
Creomulsion is made for coughs from colds that hang on. For coughs deep and difficult—coughs where you dare not risk a less effective help.
But careful people use it for coughs which seem milder—use it to do the utmost and be safe. For nobody knows where a cough may lead.
Creomulsion combines seven major helps in one. Some coughs yield best to one help, some to another. Doctors often differ on the best help, for coughs are not alike. So here we combine all the best—to be sure.
Creosote stands first. Here it is blended, emulsified and made palatable. For soothing membranes and combating germs, it is considered the supreme help in this type of cough.
But other helps are sometimes needed—pine tar, wild cherry, menthol, ipecac and others. Nobody can tell to which help your cough will soonest yield. So experts have combined in Creomulsion all best helps in one. No narcotic, nothing harmful to a child, but a seven-way help to deal with all conditions.
The price is $1.25—a little higher than a lesser help. But your druggist guarantees it. Your money is returned if it fails to bring the quick complete help you desire. Don't you think it worth that little extra to be sure that you are doing the utmost for a cough?

'STREET SCENE' HERE SECOND WEEK; NEW FILM TOMORROW

Announcement comes from the management of the Shubert Alvin that arrangements have been made whereby "Street Scene," William A. Brady's dramatization of Elmer Rice's Pulitzer prize play, will remain in the Alvin for a second and final week beginning next Monday evening.

Today the seat sale opens at the box office of the Nixon theater for David Belasco's "It's a Wise Child," direct from a year's run in New York, with the original New York company. "It's a Wise Child" will play in the Nixon for one week, commencing Monday night.

Una Merkel, the "extra" whom D. W. Griffith hired eight years ago to "stand" for Lillian Gish in "Way Down East," plays the important role of Ann Rutledge in "Abraham Lincoln," Griffith-United Artists feature, which opens Friday in the Penn.

STOCK AND PICTURES

Pauline McLean, popular leading woman with the George Sharp players in the Pitt last season, returns to the company Monday to appear in the Francine Larrimore role in "Let Us Be Gay."

Several Broadway stars will be featured in the first of the vaudeville shows, which will open in the Harris Saturday. "Extravagance," starring Lloyd Hughes and June Collyer, will be the screen attraction.

"Half Shot at Sunrise," a comedy featuring Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, comes to the Stanley tomorrow. Ed Lowry's stage show will be "Thank You."

HAROLD LLOYD'S FILM

Harold Lloyd, the comedian who uses spectacles as a trademark, will be in the Fulton and Sheridan Square theaters, beginning Friday, in his second talking picture, "Feet First."

Edmund Lowe is seen in his first dual role since the advent of talking pictures in "Scotland Yard," a drama of a notorious criminal who looked at life through another man's eyes, which comes to the Aldine tomorrow. Joan Bennett has the leading feminine role and the supporting cast includes Lumsden Hare and Donald Crisp.

Bert Lytell comes to the Enright tomorrow in a dual characterization in "Brothers." The stage attraction will be "Oh, Uncle."

Thomas Gore, head cameraman in the filming of the picture, "Bernadette of Lourdes," which opens in the Davis tomorrow, was several years in Hollywood, being associated with the Fox, Paramount and United Artists studios. His home is in Johnstown.

STAGE STAR ON AIR TONIGHT

The LOUDSPEAKER

Recipe-hunters, Why Not Oscar? | Use of "Folks," That Dill Bill.

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—With the regular appearance on the air of recipe-hunters, a renaissance in American cuisine would seem about due to dawn upon us.

Louis Reid

The gourmets who write pieces for the magazines, however, are still depressed. To them American cooking is still in a decline, is still subordinated to the drug store sandwich and bouillon cube. Their depression, in fact, has become so persistent that the broadcasters might to do something about it.

* * *

One thing they might do would be to transfer the recipe-hunters to an evening hour when they would be assured of the ears of the nation. Let the luscious secrets of the cook-book be presented with a background of music and we predict the old even will take on an activity it has not known since "bill of fare" became "menu." And why not let Oscar of the Waldorf do the talking?

Jerome Kern Has Yet To Face Microphone

The tinkly, feet-tapping tunes of Jerome Kern roll regularly out of the loudspeakers. They are ever welcome. There is such a host of them that their appeal is not easily exhausted. I have yet to hear a poor tune from Kern's piano. But Kern, himself, has not yet brought his eloquent fingers to the microphone. Perhaps, he is waiting for another cipher to be added to the broadcast fee.

Other composers of girl-and-music shows—Gershwin, Kalmar and Ruby, J. Fred Coots, Sigmund Romberg have heard the call of radio—Romberg heard it to the tune of $5,000 for a personal interpretation of his songs.

Next to those of Herbert, Romberg's waltzes are the most tuneful yet written in America. He can also turn out a drinking song as in the "Student Prince" or a moonstruck ballad as "Lover Come Back to Me" with the best of them.

Romberg's first musical show was the old Winter Garden revue, "Whirl of the World," in which Massa Jolson had a part at—it's hard to believe—$250 a week.

Boxers are now the only broadcasters who regularly employ "folks" in their radio greetings. In the early days of the microphone the expression was in constant use. Its decline began when announcers began to don tuxedos for evening programs. "Folks" was not deemed suitable to a stiff shirt, and announcers began to address their listeners "ladies and gentlemen."

The term had a brief revival after Lady Astor talked to her native land from London. She used "folks" again and again in the course of her broadcast, and the radio men for a time believed that what was good enough for her was good enough for them. But the word stuck in their mouths and they soon dropped it.

Dill Bill Should Be Taken from Pigeon Hole

A little more than a month and Congress will convene. A little more than a month and Senator Dill, we hope, will hunt in that long-buried pigeon hole his bill providing for the broadcasting of the Senate sessions.

The Senate in session would be more glamorous than ever to the ears with Jim Ham Lewis, Morrow and another Coolidge taking part.

In his recent broadcasts, President Herbert Hoover has lacked the fire that would seem to be necessary to win the enthusiasm of the people. Even Calvin Coolidge, despite his New England twang, was accustomed to give his interpretations of history with a ringing ardor that kept his hearers from turning the dials to the latest croons from the night clubs.

G. H. C., Cazenovia, N. Y., asks if greater progress toward permanent peace would not be made were nations "to prohibit by law any airing, radio or otherwise, of 'Stars and Stripes Forever,' 'Dixie,' 'La Marseillaise,' 'Rule Britania' and 'Onward Christian Soldiers.'"

The answer is yes, but the nations would no more abolish those tunes than they would tear down their flags. G. H. C. picks a good list. Those five tunes can arouse a rush to the musket more than any music written since Napoleon waited for Blucher.

Robison's 'Spirichels' Popular With Armchairs

The most expert popular writer and warbler of "spirichels" on the air today is Willard Robison, expert because his music not only tells a story, reflects the people he has known but because he sings it in a baritone of an unusually ingratiating quality.

Religion is definitely a part of Robison's songs—the religion of the camp meeting of the South. It is jazz as inspired by weather-beaten cabins and cypress-lined rivers and canebreaks. And it is jazz of a rare and haunting beauty.

KEEP FREE OF COLDS THIS WINTER

Use VAPEX at the first sign of a cold and no cold will grip you

Winter is open season for colds. But this year don't be a victim of a lingering winter cold. With Vapex you can stop your colds before they have a chance to grip you.

Vapex is a remarkable inhalant discovered in England during the war. A drop on your handkerchief or a drop at each end of your pillow gives off a soothing fragrance that promptly relieves distress—opens the nose, clears the head, and allows you to breathe freely.

Vapex is very inexpensive. The $1 bottle contains fifty applications—an average of only 2c apiece. Millions of bottles are sold yearly. It is the only inhalant for colds approved by Good Housekeeping because it is safe for every one—even little children.

For safety's sake, always ask for V-A-P-E-X—the original inhalant—and do not accept an inferior product that claims to be "just as good."

THE CELESTIAL SURGEON

If I have faltered more or less
In my great task of happiness;
If I have moved among my race
And shown no glorious morning face;
If beams from happy human eyes
Have moved me not; if morning skies,
Books, and my food, and summer rain
Knocked on my sullen heart in vain:
Lord, thy most pointed pleasure take
And stab my spirit broad awake;
Or, Lord, if too obdurate I,
Choose thou, before that spirit die,
A piercing pain, a killing sin,
And to my dead heart run them in.

—Robert Louis Stevenson.

"Moanin' Low" is promised by Libby Holman, star of "Three's a Crowd," when she sings tonight at 8 o'clock over WCAE. If you liked Irene Beasley at the Radio Show (and who didn't?) don't fail to hear her do "There's a Rainbow Round My Shoulder" at 7:30 on WJAS. While Robert Louis Stevenson is known best for his fiction, he also wrote some very nice poetry, the best of which, we think, is "The Celestial Surgeon," printed above. He is to be the reincarnated guest on WCAE's 9 o'clock feature. KDKA's Barn Dance takes place at 10:15.

RUNAWAY STEAM SHOVEL HITS BUILDING

MISS MARY PURCHILL AND "JIMMY" SPEARMAN

"Jimmy" was toppled from his bed when a heavy steam shovel smashed into the apartment building where he lives at Snowden street and Brushton avenue. It cut a great hole in the wall.

OCCUPANTS PERILED BY CRASH

Wall Pierced, Apartment House Shaken by Impact; Driver Stays at His Post

A heavy steam shovel, propelled by a tractor, skidded down Snowden street today, striking the side of the Unity Apartments, at the corner of Brushton avenue, turned around, and continued down the street until it reached the intersection, where it was brought under control.

The big bucket crashed through the side of a vacant storeroom, knocking a hole about five feet in circumference through brick and plaster. The beam crashed into apartments above the storeroom.

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin B. Gruber was sleeping in his crib on the third floor, in a room which was damaged, but was unhurt. Ford Coddington, in a fourth floor apartment, writing at his desk near a window when the boom struck, escaped injury.

In the apartment of John Gilmore, directly above the storeroom, the wall and mantelpiece were pushed in, and plaster was loosened. N. J. De Monaco, operating the shovel, which is owned by the A. F. Jardano Company, remained in his seat during all of the wild ride, and was not hurt.

Residents on the other side of the building felt the shock. Mrs. A. L. Spearman said she was sitting on a bed with her baby, Jimmy, when the building shook and she fell to the floor.

SIDEWALKS —of— PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

William Pfarr

There was good natured entering at the reunion of St. Vincent College alumni in Beatty. Many of the guests at the banquet were priests.

In fact one, Father James Delaney, of St. Agnes Church, was making a speech about the undefeated St. Vincent's baseball team of 1908, on which he was the portalop.

"There was a ball club for us," Father Delaney rhapsodied, "probably the best——"

"Just a minute, Father," interrupted 10-year-old Father raven, of Cresson. "Now in 08 we had a team that——"

"Pardon me, Father," insisted Father Delaney, "but this a monologue."

We intend right now to ignore caution and invade the privacy of certain persons. Two of these persons are Martin McDonough, superintendent of the State Sanatarium n the hinterlands of Cresson, Pa., and Mrs. McDonough.

The McDonoughs came to town a few days ago and were doing some buying in one of the stores.

Mr. McDonough happened to stumble off an escalator, without injury, but with some embarrassment.

A few minutes later they were riding another escalator. Mr. McDonough reached the bottom just as Mrs. McDonough was leaving the top. Ever solicitous of her husband's welfare, Mrs. McDonough whispered, so to speak, down to him:

"Now Martin, watch yourself this time."

We are also in a position to ivade the privacy of the Leese ome in Bellevue.

Mrs. Harry C. Leese was prearing breakfast for her daughr, Jane, who passed her third irthday in August.

Mrs. Leese was startled out of pleasant morning mood when he heard this criticism, veiled n appeal, from Jane:

"Mother, will you please burn ne another piece of bread?"

An item entitled, "Fun in the District Attorney's Office:"

The other day District Attorney Andy Park invited two of his assistants, Roy Clunk and Barney Cohen, to his rifle range near his home in Perrysville.

Assistant District Attorney Cohen knows nothing of guns or shooting, so District Attorney Park wagered him a hat that he could not hit two out of 50 birds.

Assistant District Attorney Cohen figured that at the worst he was better than that. He accepted the bet.

But District Attorney Park handed him a rifle loaded with buckshot.

Even with buckshot Assistant District Attorney Cohen just managed to clip two birds. He won the hat.

Anti-climax: Assistant District Attorney Clunk then tossed Assistant District Attorney Cohen's own hat into the air and filled it with bullets. Tally: one hat won, one hat lost.

Credit Organization Elects Pittsburgher

Truesdale is the manager of the merchant-owned Credit Bureau, Inc., of Pittsburgh, and secretary of the Retail Credit Men's Association of this city.

It was decided to obtain reports as to the paying habits of all persons in towns of 500 or more in the western part of the state.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 13.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

Celebrated 12 years of continuous peace Tuesday, and we looked about as bad off as we did 12 years ago when we celebrated the end of two years of war. If we pulled together as much to put over a siege of peace as we do a spell of war, we would be sitting pretty, but we can't hardly wait for a war to end to start taking it out on each other. Peace is kinder like prosperity, there is mighty few nations that can stand it. Yours,

WILL.

BUS LINE ASKED AS TIMEPIECE

Contemplated changes in the rerouting of bus lines in North Braddock caused Mrs. N. Round, of Cliff street, that borough, to favor the one proposed by Gustav Popper, because she said she could set her clock by the operation of his buses. She also said his route was more convenient.

This developed before Commissioner Samuel Walker, of the Public Service Commission, when the routings applied for by James J. Dawson and Popper came up for a hearing. Dawson wants to operate his bus service between Palace avenue in North Braddock and Eighth street, Braddock. Popper wants to operate between Eighth and Braddock avenues and Jones avenue and Yost boulevard.

DRYS SEIZE CAR, RUM; 4 HELD

Two men, arrested yesterday while they were alleged to have been transporting 20 gallons of wine in an automobile in Leechburg, were lodged in the Central Police Station by prohibition agents for a hearing today before the United States commissioner.

The two, John Bonatti, 33, of 547 Canal street, Leechburg, alleged owner of the car, and Ciesare Migilo, 52, of Third street, Leechburg, were arfrested when they stopped their automobile in front of a house which agents had under surveillance. The car and wine were taken to the government warehouse.

A small quantity of whisky and 84 bottles of beer seized in a house on the Bakerstown road, led to the arrest of John Dudek and his wife, agents reported. Both were released on their own recognizance.

The committee in charge is composed of Leo Nowicki, chairman; Police Inspector Bernard Kirley, Joseph Yarsky, Harry Payne, M. Kramer, William Kessler and Frank Nowicki.

MONESSEN BUS WAR IMPENDS

An auto bus war is threatened in the Monongahela Valley because of the request of the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company for permission to operate a bus service between Pittsburgh and Monessen, it was indicated in testimony offered yesterday before Public Service Commissioner Samuel Walker. The commissioner heard the application of the Monongahela Transport Company, subsidiary of the Penn Bus Lines, for permission to operate a similar service.

To grant the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company the right to operate an hourly service to Monessen, in the opinion of H. K. Breckenridge, superintendent of the Penn Lines, would cause serious competition with other companies in the territory and have an unfavorable effect on the public.

The Monongahela Transport Company operates between Pittsburgh, Uniontown and Clarksburg, by way of Monessen, but does not take passengers in Monessen for Pittsburgh or from Pittsburgh to Monessen. It wants permission to do so.

The right of the Monongahela Transport Company to transport passengers between Pittsburgh and Monessen and to use extra buses if necessary beyond the making of three trips daily, is not only opposed by the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, but also the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie Railroad. Witnesses testified as to the need of the service applied for by the transport company.

Slippery Street Blamed in Auto Suit

The City of Pittsburgh was accused of negligence in permitting water to seep to the street, from a main, causing an automobile accident, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Sheplar. The city was asked to pay $30,000 damages for injuries to Mrs. Sheplar when their automobile skidded on California avenue near Woodlawn avenue and hit a telephone pole on September 30 last.

Policeman Finds Own Lost Gem At Station

Night Desk Sergt. W. J. Haslett, of Tarentum police, today was having a belated laugh at the expense of other members of the department. Last night when he reported for work two brother officers sympathized with Haslett over the loss of his diamond, valued at $300, which he had reported missing during the afternoon. After listening to their words of comfort, Haslett suddenly glanced at the the police station floor; stooped over, and picked up the missing gem.

Haslett said today he lost the diamond when he went to draw his pay yesterday afternoon. Several policemen and other borough employes together with a number of citizens had been in the room during the five hours the gem had laid unnoticed on the floor.

SKIDMORE'S PAL HELD IN KILLING

A coroner's jury inquiring into the slaying of Charles Hamon, 22, of 119 Almond street, crippled gas station attendant, today held Eugene Batdorf, of McKees Rocks, for murder and recommended apprehension of George C. Skidmore and Henry White on like charges.

Hamon was killed September 20 in a holdup of the Liberty Bell gasoline station, Boggs and Warrington avenues. Skidmore shot his way out when trapped in a mountain cabin near Bellefonte, and is believed to have fled to Canada.

Detectives Frank Ferris and Frank Morgan, of the city homicide squad, testified Batford had confessed to participating in the fatal holdup, naming Skidmore and White as the two who had entered the gas station, while Batford sat outside in an automobile. Henry Hall, of 325 Hemlock street, an eye-witness, testified Skidmore shot Hamon without warning.

Ask Study of Cost Of Highway Flares

The highway safety committee of the Pittsburgh Motor Club has asked the Pennsylvania Bureau of Motor Vehicles to investigate the cost of providing state and city highway police with distinctive flares to be used at night. It is estimated by Capt. William G. Price, of the state motor patrol, that $16,000 a year would be required for adequate flares.

Men's Brotherhood Gather at Dinner

The Men's Brotherhood, Bellevue Methodist Episcopal Church meets at 6:30 o'clock tonight in the church rooms for a dinner-meeting. The Rev. Dr. John M. Versteeg, of the South Avenue M. E. Church, Wilkinsburg, will speak.

CLEAN STREETS CRUSADE BEGUN

Dr. C. B. Maits, of the City Health Department, has started a crusade against dumping garbage and refuse in the streets. Two arrests were made yesterday.

Residents and dealers in the Hill and Penn avenue produce districts are said to be the worst violators, Director James M. Clark, of the Department of Public Safety, has promised to have policemen aid in the campaign for cleanliness.

The sanitary squad has been tripled in the districts named, and yesterday William Staples, 32, of 152 Elm street, and Louis Chambers, both Negroes, of 1712 Center avenue, were arrested for throwing garbage into the streets. Magistrate Leo Rothenberg fined each $5.

INDICT COLLINS IN BOAT RAID

Don Collins, whose alleged sale of two pints of whisky to prohibition agents last May resulted in a federal raid on the "Showboat" night club in the Allegheny River at Sixth street, was indicted today by a federal grand jury.

It had been testified Collins was not in the employ of the "Showboat" owners, and had no connection with the night club. Collins pleaded guilty May, 1929, to the sale of liquor, and was fined $150.

North Side Chamber To Elect Officers

The North Side Chamber of Commerce has set December 4 for the annual election of officers and good-fellowship meeting. The election will be a formality, as all present officers have been renominated. They are: President, F. E. Tencate; first vice president, H. F. Burnworth; second vice president, G. H. Baskerville; secretary, J. J. Kassouf; treasurer, D. R. Stitsel. Nominees for the board of directors include C. O. Schmitt, J. J. Cowling, J. G. Shaw, George C. Blumenschein, William J. Smart and N. A. Phelan.

CITIES LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

Officers will be elected and the future policy determined at a meeting in the Fort Pitt Hotel at 7 p. m. today of the League of Boroughs, Townships and Third-Class Cities of Allegheny County.

Members of the league, who live in various sections of the Ninth, Tenth, Eleventh, Twelfth and Thirteenth legislative districts, organized years ago to oppose bills submitted to the Legislature authorizing the forced annexation of smaller to larger municipalities.

Other organizations with the same purposes and which include many league members are the State Boroughs Association, the State Association of Commissioners of Townships of the First Class and the State Association of Supervisors of Townships of the Second Class.

The joint efforts of the organizations resulted in the appointment, in 1924, by Gifford Pinchot, during his previous term as governor, of a commission to study and present a charter for a greater Pittsburgh.

The league and its allies, primarily, were responsible for the passage by two succeeding Legislatures, and the favorable vote of the people in 1928, of a constitutional amendment authorizing the submission of a proposed charter for a greater city to the voters. A special election was held last June 25 and the charter was rejected by a small margin.

It is probable the discussion tonight will center on asking the 1931 Legislature for authority to again submit the charter to the voters.

Has Stolen Horse, Man Indicted by U. S.

Edward Larkin, of Sioux Falls, S. D., today was indicted by a federal grand jury for possessing a draft horse, stolen from an inter-state shipment.

M. J. Smith, of Nebraska, charged the horse was taken from his lot at Calument City, Ill., and later was found, sold from a shipment that Larkin had taken to Volant, Pa.

GUNMEN STAGE TWO HOLDUPS

Two bandits who obtained $50 in the holdup last night of the grocery of Joseph Akerman, at 7315 Butler street, were being sought by police and detectives today.

Akerman and his wife, Emma, were in a kitchen in the rear of the store when the two thugs entered. As the grocer walked into the store, one of the thugs, pointing a revolver, ordered him back into the kitchen where he held Ackerman and his wife at bay while his accomplice looted the cash register. They escaped in an automobile.

An armed Negro entered the Downs' gasoline station, at 1938 East Ohio street, and after threatening Edward Matthews, an attendant, with a revolver, escaped with $11 stolen from the register.

No trace had been found by police of the pretty blonde girl who aided a man in beating and robbing Yee Dick, in his laundry at 618 Taylor avenue, yesterday. They took $60 from the register after binding and gagging him.

CARRICK FIGHTS ASSESSMENTS

More than 100 Carrick property owners were marking time today pending action by the City Board of Assessors on appeals from tax assessments the complainants charge are excessive.

Headed by Joseph P. Lewis, of the Carrick Bank, the delegation visited the assessors' offices yesterday in the City-County Building and formally registered complaints. The appeals will be acted on shortly, Thomas McMahon, head of the board, intimated.

The complaints are based on the triennial assessments made by the city. Carrick, formerly a borough, has been a part of Pittsburgh for four years. Most of those who appealed own property on the Brownsville road.

In some instances, Lewis said, the average rate of from $80 to $90 per property foot, made the last assessment, has been increased to from $190 to $210.

Bellevue Sisterhood Holds Bazar, Supper

Bellevue Sisterhood No. 96, Dames of Malta, will hold a supper and bazar tonight in Odd Fellows Hall Lincoln and Meade avenues, Bellevue. Dinner will be served from 5:30 to 7:30 o'clock.

U. S. Judge Quashes Search Warrant Based on Odor

A search warrant executed by prohibition agents in searching the home of Michael Rogan, Cass avenue, North Side, was quashed by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, and a half barrel of "unlabeled" beer was suppressed as evidence.

The court, in an opinion, held that the mere smell of alcohol and seeing men enter and leave the premises was not sufficient to establish probable cause for the search warrant. The court also pointed out it was established by testimony that the saloon on the premises was closed two years ago, and used only for the purpose of drying clothes on rainy days.

Upon petition of Andy Rogan, who asked that property seized by prohibition agents at 505 Dixon street, Homestead, be suppressed as evidence, the court granted a rule on United States Attorney Louis E. Graham and prohibition authorities to show cause why it should not be suppressed. The rule was made returnable Saturday.

Rogan claimed in his petition that the premises were searched without probable cause and that agents appearing before the United States commissioner wrongly testified as to the property seized.

Shady Avenue Zone Change Opposed; Rulings Delayed

Immediate extension of a business district along Shady avenue east of Murray avenue was opposed before Council yesterday by a delegation of residents headed by former Judge Stephen Stone.

They appeared at a hearing on an ordinance changing the zoning regulations on the north east corner of Shady and Forbes from residence to commercial. The change, sought to permit the erection of a gasoline station, is recommended by the City Planning Commission.

Council withheld its decision. The body also withheld approval of two other proposed changes from residential to commercial, one on California avenue in the vicinity of Perrott and Chellis streets, the other on the south side of Wilkins avenue east form Wightman street. Both of these were disapproved by the planning commission.

PINCHOT CALLS LEGISLATIVE CONFERENC

SEEKS PLEDGES TO CARRY OUT PROGRAM

Governor-Elect Wants Own Men to Head House and Senate; Considers Program

Gov.-Elect Gifford Pinchot will discuss, about December 1 with incoming members of the House and Senate, prospective officers of the General Assembly and Pinchot's legislative program.

Allegheny County members of both branches of the state government received letters yesterday from Pinchot in which he expressed the desire to meet them in Harrisburg when he returns from his vacation. It was said that identical letters had been mailed to members from other counties.

SEEKS LEADER PLEDGES

It is generally believed that Pinchot's energy will be centered first in obtaining pledges for his choice of speaker of the House and president protem of the Senate, as both of those officers will have the appointing of the committees in their respective branches.

The prevailing impression with local leaders is that no member from the western end of the state has any chance of being selected for those berths and the Philadelphia contingent, by its bitter opposition to Pinchot and expressed contempt for the local Republican organization, appears to have lost any chance for favorable consideration of candidates from that city.

Pinchot will try, it is believed, to have his candidates chosen by getting enough up-state counties, including Allegheny, to get behind his selections, regardless of Philadelphia's attitude.

Pinchot Seeks Code To Balk Voting Frauds

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 13.—Complete revision of the state election code is contemplated by Gov.-elect Gifford Pinchot, according to S. Davis Wilson, his campaign manager for Philadelphia, in the recent election, and Charles E. Alms, an attorney.

Chief among the changes prepared by a special committee is permanent registration; abolition of the practice of assisting voters, and more stringent penalties for violation of the election laws.

Another proposal is an intelligence test for election boards, with all boards to be examined and taught their duties and responsibilities.

Incidentally, a recount will be demanded in all Philadelphia districts where there is evidence pointing to fraud, Wilson asserted.

SHELLS PERIL FIREMEN AT STORE BLAZE

Cartridges Explode as Three Companies Fight Fire at Castle Shannon

Explosion of a large supply of cartridges endangered firemen from three volunteer companies combatting flames which destroyed the building housing the Mutual Supply Company store and recently established offices of the Pittsburgh Terminal Coal Corporation at Chestnut and Willow streets, Castle Shannon, early today.

Lieut. John Ratajchak, a member of the Castle Shannon Fire Company, was burned on the foot by a burning ember. He was given treatment and sent home. Fire Chief Elmer J. Zeiler, of Castle Shannon, estimated the damage at $20,000.

Firemen from Castle Shannon, Mt. Lebanon and Broughton fought the blaze all night. The Castle Shannon company, the first to arrive on the scene, had the fire under control and were in the storeroom when the flames reached the shells. They were showered with missles and were ordered out of the building. Flames burst out anew and the fire was not extinguished until several hours later.

Only one company has bid for the contract for electrical work at the projected new Arsenal Trade School, according to James Bonar, superintendent of buildings of the Board of Public Education. This came from the Cronenweth Electric Company, of Pittsburgh, he said.

Orphaned Children of Man Who Died for Bread Theft Bravely 'Carry On'

Out in Rural Ridge, Indiana Township, where bread is life—and death—four half-starved sons and daughters today mourn the death of Joseph Drusin, who chose the "easiest way" out of his jobless difficulties.

But the family's difficulties have doubled—even trebled.

They are still without food, except for the scant meal or two kind neighbors have shared with them.

NO BURIAL PLACE

They have no burial place for the father, who ended his life rather than undergo the shame of arrest for theft of a loaf of bread.

Neither the surviving son, John, a strapping lad of 20, nor the eldest sister's husband, Herman Grottenthaler, 30, have jobs, nor is there much hope of their providing even the bare necessities of life at the present outlook. They have been without employment for months.

They are in debt. They owe rent, grocer bills at two stores and are faced with almost certain curtailment of credit at either or both stores, the only source of food and clothing supplies.

PAYS LIFE FOR LOAF

The Elder Drusin paid with his life for the loaf he hoped would sustain him and his children. There are four—one son and three daughters, the eldest married and living with her 17-months-old son and jobless husband at the father's home. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Grottenthaler and their infant son, Herman, Jr., moved in with the father nearly two years ago, the mother having died nine years before. Father, son and son-in-law pooled their joint earnings, but for several months they haven't had even a day's work. The other children are Betty, 16, and Theresa, 12.

Drusin saw a loaf of bread in the home of Mrs. Mary Fatchko, a neighbor. He took it and then put it back. But the shame and disgrace was too much. He was told to appear before a justice of the peace, and a short time later his lifeless body was found hanging in the basement.

NEIGHBOR SENDS FOOD

Last night the family dined on sandwiches sent in by Mrs. Stanley Kasha, a kindly neighbor, who has barely enough for her own family, but who declared:

"As long as I have a scrap of bread you are welcome to half of it."

WOMAN BUYS SHOES

A neighbor told of another family in destitute circumstances. The father, Frank Zietz, was killed by a hit-and-run motorist September 27. The widow, Mrs. Dorothy Zietz, and five small children, the eldest 11, are living in misery, their credit exhausted at both stores and starvation looming ahead.

A kind-hearted woman resident of New Kensington heard of their plight several weeks ago. She bought shoes for the entire family. Their clothes are in tatters and food is mighty scarce.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Cap and Bells To Be Here On Dec. 29

Before I talk about the event of events of yesterday I want to chat for a moment about another event added to the galaxy of affairs planned for the gay Yuletide.

Cap and Bells of Williams College in Connecticut will come to town, as will as the Princeton Triangle Club and Yale Glee Club. On December 29 in the new Twentieth Century Club the players will present a performance of Christopher Morley's, "The Blue and the Gray, or, War Is Hell." A dance, sponsored by Cap and Bells, will follow the play.

Sometime during the afternoon yesterday everyone dropped in for a few minutes at least at the annual sale of the Woman's Exchange, held in the ballroom of the new Twentieth Century Club. Boys and girls too young to belong to the school set were there with older children, too, to see a moving picture, "Reskins," presented under the direction of Mrs. J. Sidney Hammond. Refreshments were served for the young guests by Mrs. Albert Wells and her committee.

Exchange Yule Sale

All sorts of inviting gifts for the approaching Christmas season encouraged folks to do their shopping early, and dolls and toys of all sorts attracted everybody.

Chatting with friends near the doll table, at which Mrs. Samuel Alfred McClung in black velvet and lace, served as salesman, was Mrs. William Christopher Robinson, the general chairman. She chose a dark red crepe gown, trimmed in black. With her was her sub-deb daughter, Althea, wearing a smart hunter's green cloth suit, with smart collars and cuffs of mink, and a green felt hat.

Mrs. Donald C. Bakewell wore a jade green jersey with a felt hat to match. I saw Mrs. Harmar Denny, in a printed black and green gown, and La Salle Dorrance, a debutante of the season, in a smart black velvet suit, and Betty McCance in sapphire blue crepe.

Serve As Salesmen

Mrs. A. Rex Flinn was presiding over some most attractive doll's houses. She was wearing a smart gown of wood-brown crepe with long cuffs and a smart vest of ecru lace. Her hat was of brown felt.

Selling household goods of all sorts was Miss Neil Stewart, wearing green crape and lace, and her niece, Neil Stewart Zang, who chose a smart black knitted suit, trimmed in green.

Among the society women presiding at the various tables were Mrs. Dorwin Donnelly, in black crepe with a felt hat to match; and Mrs. Harry Darlington in a smart dark blue flannel dress with a Scotch plaid scarf.

Others I saw were Mrs. Walter Yost, Mrs. James Umbstaetter, Mrs. Thomas L. Orr and Mrs. William Penn Snyder, Jr., wearing a black and white tweed dress. Mrs. Snyder was selling negligees. Another worker was Mrs. W. S. Moorhead, who chose a wood-brown cloth suit with a lemon yellow blouse and a brown felt hat. Mrs. Harold J. Dorrance was among the shoppers. She wore a black ensemble. Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys in a black ensemble, was there with her young daughter Andrea, and Mrs. W. W. Blair, Jr., in a brown ensemble.

Society Attends

Others I noticed in the thronged ballroom were Mrs. W. K. Dunlap, wearing a green knitted suit; Mrs. Charles Wharton, Mrs. William Zang, in a green knitted suit with a hat to match; Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe and Mrs. William Moreland.

Mrs. Charles Wesley Ridinger, Jr., was there with her attractive little daughter, Sarah. Mrs. Ridinger wore a green crepe dress in tunic effect and a green felt hat.

Last evening one of fall's loveliest weddings took place at 7:30 o'clock in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church. The bride was Martha Elizabeth Searles, daughter of the Edward J. Searleses, of Bryant street, and she married Paul Autenreith, son of the J. L. Autenreiths, of the King Edward Apartments. Officiating was the Rev. J. Reginald Moody, of Long Island, assisted by the Rev. Dr. Robert Meade. The church was banked with cibotium ferns, crotons, bamboo and bronze chrysanthemums.

Wedding At Church

The bride was lovely in a princess gown of ivory satin with a yoke of seed pearls, with the long, slightly flaring skirt ending in a brief train, and the dress had long sleeves. Her tulle veil cascaded from a cap of duchess lace, and was bordered with the lace, which belonged to her grandmother. She carried yellow Pernet roses showered with lilies of the valley and orchids. Her sister, Peggy Searles, as the maid of honor, wore pistachio green satin and carried bronze chrysanthemums. The bridesmaids all wore similar gowns of pale afterglow satin, and carried bronze chrysanthemums. They included Linda Munroe, Katherine James, Jessie Sceer and Jean Sencabaugh, of Cleveland, O.

Larry Thebaud was the best man and the ushers included Henry Scheetz, Jr., Vincent McGuinness and the bride's two brothers, William Searles and John D. Searles.

At the reception in the home of the bride the dinner table was centered with bronze chrysanthemums, yellow roses and pompons, and lighted by yellow tapers in crystal holders. The house was decorated simply with bronze chrysanthemums, maidenhair ferns, crotons and bamboo.

Novemberites Feted at Congress

The birthday party for all those of the education department of the Congress of Clubs who are November-born, which was given at the department's meeting yesterday instituted a regular monthly feature. Hereafter each month will see some special attention paid to those born within its circle and each honor guest will give, in gratitude for another year attained (at least), "per ag" in pennies, the money to be used for the department's scholarship fund. More than $20 was contributed yesterday.

Miriam Schonfield was hostess for the birthday party; Elsie Breese Mitchell, the music chairman for both the department and the Congress, wrote a song for the occasion; there were special floral decorations and gifts, one of which was the candle-lighted cake from Mrs. Milton C. Reno, clubhouse manager and herself a Novemberite. Mrs. Alice Koser, 84-year-old member of the department; John Adams, principal of Perry High School; Mrs. Mary J. WHITE GARMENTS GAINING POPULARITY FOR WINTER

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 13.—White plays a stellar role in the style pageant this season and is scheduled to appear at resorts in both snowy and southern climes. Its style versatility is remarkable, as ed by the consumate ease with which white adapts itself to the demands of the sports mode, as well as casual daytime costumes and evening raiment. This was impressed upon us both by the costumes worn by the audience and the players seen at the Edouard VII Theater. Many white gowns and wraps were the choice of the notables of the audience and when the curtain rose on the first act of "The Rendezvous," the well known Roumanian actress, Elvira Popesco, appeared in a white sports costume from Jenny. The scene of the action was placed in Switzerland during the wintertime, so the ensemble designed for winter sports wear was prophetic of what this season will bring forth there.

THE COSTUME was a three-piece jacket model with a belted coat and a straight skirt of white wool and a tuck-in sweater blouse of handknit white shetland. Jenny repeated here her idea of last winter in using two different types of fur on the same model. The cleverness of the idea is seen in this instance in a tiny collar of ermine with black astrakan making the border of the coat and facing the wide cuffs. Mlle. Popesco wore with this a close little hat of white knitted wool drawn down and back over the head and ending in a roll of the fabric at the sides and back.

* * * *

A DISTINGUISHED member of the audience wore an evening wrap from Redfern with such grace and beauty that we could not resist bringing it to you, too. Of handsome black velvet the wrap is lined throughout with white satin. The entire upper half of the wrap is formed of horizontal bands set edge to edge and the lower part takes the form of a trailing circular skirt slightly shirred at the back. A large collar of flattering white fox contributed the note of white that no black costume seems to be complete without.

To prevent that powdered look use a powder that blends

THIS NEW BEIGE POWDER ACTUALLY BECOMES PART OF THE SKIN

The eagerly sought natural finish can not be achieved with powder chosen haphazardly or simply because of habit. Certain powders cause streaks; others, spottiness—but Primrose Beige is so perfect a shade and so fine in texture that it actually becomes part of the skin. It clings, and remains on the face for hours—a precious boon to women who don't like to be forever reaching for the powder puff. To learn the advantages of this luxurious $3 powder, you need only buy a dollar's worth, for it is now available in boxes at $1.

At all better class drug and department stores, in boxes, $1 and $3. Primrose House, 595 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

GRABOWSKY'S ADVISE the Purchase NOW of FUR COATS

This advice, which Grabowsky's repeat again and again, is based on two important facts:

● THE FASHIONS of yesteryear are no longer in vogue. This year's fur coats are definitely different, and decidedly smarter! Fur coats are longer...their skirts fuller...they are slightly fitted, or bloused ...their collars and their cuffs assume new importance in fashion.

● DESPITE the increased amount of fur required in their making, Grabowsky Fur Coats average 30 per cent less in price than last year's, and are actually lower than they've been during the past fifteen years.

DISABLED VETS WIN AWARDS

Two World War veterans were awarded judgments by juries in Federal court in suits they brought against the government to recover on $10,000 war risk insurance policies, because of permanent disability. The cases were tried before Judge Nelson McVicar.

Noble J. Patterson, 36, Negro, of 10 Devilliers street, was awarded $6,795, and Michael A. Scapicchio, 35, of 660 Congress street, $5,117.50. The verdicts implies the right to collect the remainder in monthly installments of $57.50. The government opposed the claims, contending the former soldiers were not permanently disabled when discharged from service.

Patterson testified that while he was engaged in removing iron rails from a railroad car at Varennes, France, he was injured by a rail falling on him, as a result of which he contracted tuberculosis. Scapicchio testified he was permanently disabled by contracting tuberculosis at Camp Lee.

CIVIL WAR VETS FETE NOV. 19

A basket picnic for Civil War veterans and their families will be held in Memorial Hall Wednesday afternoon and evening in celebration of Grand Army Day. The event also marks the sixty-seventh anniversary of Lincoln's Gettysburg address. Dinner is to be served at 5:30 o'clock. John Sauter will be toastmaster at the informal dinner. The program includes addresses by veterans and a musical program. Mrs. Margaret Bennett is general chairman of the picnic.

PROLONGS LIFE OF SILK HOSE

All women will be interested in the recent discovery of a leading New York fashion expert. She learned that besides perspiration, all next-to-skin garments absorb an oily excretion from the sebaceous glands that causes silks to rot.

Soap and water cannot dissolve this destructive oil film—it requires a solvent like Energine. So when next washing silk hose or lingerie, add a tablespoonful of Energine to a quart of lukewarm, soapy water. Wash thoroughly—rinse well—and note the new fresh cleanliness—see how magically the original color is revived and with far less rubbing. You can't appreciate how much soap and water fail short till you make this Energine test. More wear, too, from every pair of hose. And don't forget that millions use Energine daily for quick removal of dirt and grease spots from suits, hats, dresses, gloves, shoes, etc. Large can 35c. Get Energine today.

OH MAMMA! I CAN'T TAKE COD LIVER OIL

Don't give child slimy oil. Give him tasteless tablets to build up teeth and bones

CHILDREN need cod liver oil, of course. Any doctor will tell you that. But it's a shame to force them to take a whole greasy spoonful of oil. Its taste is so horrible. It upsets their stomachs. Many children even throw up.

Today the modern mother gives her child cod liver oil in tablet form. No more fishy-smelling bottle. No more greasy spoon, no more fuss or muss.

To get these amazing little tablets you go to the nearest drug store and get a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Extract Tablets. We buy the finest cod liver oil that Norway can produce, extract all the A and D vitamins, and put them in this handy tablet form. Two tiny tablets give you all the benefits you get in the slimy liquid oil.

Leading scientists of Europe and America have endorsed these remarkable tablets, and the famous Good Housekeeping Institute has given them its seal of approval. Physicians everywhere are now prescribing cod liver oil in this new and tasteless tablet form.

So, mother, if you would give your child the gift of straight strong legs, sound teeth and sturdy bones, go to your druggist today and ask for a box of McCoy's. Give them regularly and faithfully and they'll quickly put that little tot on the road to robust health.

"I have tried out the League plan for three months, and I regret to say, as far as I am concerned, it is not the solution of the ticket problem."

GANGSTER GIRL

By JACK LAIT

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Polack Annie, notorious gangster girl, flees Chicago and seeks the protection of New York's biggest racketeer, "Silk" Freeman. Freeman is fascinated by her beauty and provides an expensive hotel suite for her. At a night club the admiration of the young and wealthy Tommy Gillespie for Annie arouses Freeman's jealousy. Tom learns of Freeman's plan to get in on his father's trucking business and vows to fight it.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

Cyclone Tim McClosky was a dese, dose and dem guy. Tough, ungodly, uncouth and—with a heart as big as a Mulberry street watermelon. He was the giant leader of the River Rats—as unearthly a crew as was ever gotten together on land or sea or beneath the Brooklyn Bridge—vicious ferocious and predatory men captained by as tough a roustabout as ever kicked a cobblestone on South street—and a great guy at that.

Cyclone Tim was no ordinary Kansas twister that tears the seat out of a man's pants. He was a typhoon that tore a man's insides out. No weapon was too lowly for him, nor were there any gentleman's rules in the rough-and-tumble battle of his existence. He had been cuffed in childhood by his mother, beaten in youth by his father, and clubbed into manhood by the police. His followers were loafers, lushers, jackrollers, lumberjacks, stevedores, sailors who had deserted ship and a mob of East River toughs born or deserted to the garbage and muck of human possessions along the water front.

Tommy Gillespie, greasy cap over one eye and muscles bulging beneath soiled dungarees, found Cyclone Tim in a foul saloon on Water street, just a block from the river where his father's trailers were loaded and emptied. He found Cyclone Tim because he was looking for him. It was no accident.

Tommy had been wised up to the ways of water-front etiquette since his few days on his father's trucks. So he didn't talk out of turn. But he spotted the bulk and the hulk of Cyclone Tim at the end of the bar the minute he entered. He called for a drink.

The bartender, with lowering, suspicious countenance, set out the glass of colored alky without ever taking his eyes off Tommy. He acted as though he had a mind to snatch it back at the slightest move. Tommy tossed his head, threw a little laugh and sent the hell-sizzling liquid down his pipes. He made a wry face, but he grinned, wiped his mouth and edged down the bar toward Cyclone Tim half of whose displacement lay sprawled out on the liquor-seared walnut.

Tommy Explains

"Have a drink," he called to Cyclone Tim, and waved his arm with a sweep over the bar.

"Don't drink," growled Cyclone Tim.

"Know Biff Glasson?" asked Tommy looking him squarely in the eye.

"Never heard o' him," moodily. Then, with sudden suspicious nerve: "S-a-y—whatcha tryin' t' do—get information?"

Tommy spat it out—there was no other way.

"I'm Tall Tom Gillespie's son—that Bridge Twisters' mob is been hi-jackin' our trucks and chasin' off our men—I'll kick in good dough to stop it."

Cyclone Tim never answered a word. Never moved a muscle of his walrus-hide face.

"I've heard o' youse," he growled finally. He unlimbered himself from the bar, leisurely, dangerously. Tommy braced himself. Cyclone Tim drew up to his full height, and then he calmly looked Tommy over from head to foot. Presently he sank on the bar again, folding his arms.

"I'll grab a drink on you," he ordered.

The bartender, in whose eyes nestled terror and who had held one hand beneath the bar at the indications of a fight, quickly set out two glasses of the sallow foul-smelling stuff. Then, without asking Tommy, he planted out others for the drooped figures along the bar who sprang straight up like marionettes at the first whiff of booze, and he poured a drink for himself.

Silk In Love

"Here's to all o' youse," bellowed Cyclone Tim, making a swift move with the glass, which was like a thimble in his hairy, greasy paw. Various inarticulate sounds came from the bozos.

"Now, how much will you pay?" whispered Cyclone Tim, moving the thick-bottomed glass around absently on the wet bar.

"I know you hate the soul o' that Biff Glasson—"

"I said, how much will you pay?" Cyclone Tim countermanded sternly. "My hatin' is my own business. What's in this?"

* * *

Pete, the ex-convict servant, heard the deadened buzzar. He slid into his bathrobe and shuffled to the door of the master chamber. He rapped Silk Freeman opened the door an inch.

"Bacon an' eggs for one, have the bacon crisp; boiled eggs for me, as usual; buttered toast—coffee—an' we start with orange juice—not too chilled—step on it."

Pete didn't answer. He just went. Silk Freeman turned to Polack Annie.

"Annie," he heaved, "the bad babies in Chi that blew to Hell for you can smile in their graves, I followed 'em all, an' I hand 'em a bend," and Freeman bowed from the waist. "They done some perfect pickin.' You made the big time. Now you're Silk's woman. Gee, lover, I never thought I'd go goofy over any p'tic'lar broad. But to me one hair o' your red head is stronger than the Atlantic cable. . . . do you understand what I'm sayin'? Silk Freeman! I'm in love, you damn fool! Freeman—F-r-e-e-m-a-n—B. B.—booked!. Goin' college boy over a twist"——

Becomes Angry

"Speakin' o' college boys, Silk," ventured Annie, "did you say that young Gillespie boy was out o' Ha'vard?"

"Yale!" snapped Freeman, "What in the hell made you think o' him—at a moment like this?"

"Oh—nothin'—jus' you mentioned college—an' it was you told me he come out o' one——

"Aw—yeh? Well 'college' an 'coffin' start wit' the same letter, C! See? You're puttin' the finger off that thick hick mick. What's the idee, blurbin' about him when you're wit' ME? How'd you like a swell bust in the beezer?"

"No—Big Boy—act your position. Sure, you can ghoul me. But what's the vict'ry in that? . . . you was jus' tellin' me how much you cared for me"——

"So I do. An' cut out ravin' about that yellow-headed punk. I told you I'm gonna racket his ol' man's business. Biff Glasson is out right now moppin' up the details. But—from the firs' minute I met his eye in that dinner joint, he played like I was the Princeton team, or something. I was only goin' to muscle in — now I'm goin' to wreck those Gillespies . . . of all mornin's this mornin' you could concentrate a little on Freeman. What is this rash you're nursin' about that sucker?"

Polack Annie tried to keep the color from coming up in her sensitive cheeks. She was helpless, broke and in-between.

"Silk," she breathed, "you're like a high school kid. Jealous! Peevish! Aren't you proud o' yourself, a big shot like you, owning a woman and scared yeller because she talks about a stooge? Silk, I'm s'prised at you."

Annie Loathes Him

Freeman picked up a vase off the dresser and poised it over his head to crown this impudent upstart with. But he let it come down limply. He deposited it there. He crossed to the bed, knelt on the rug, slid an arm around Polack Annie's neck, held her peachy, soft cheek against his, killed the corner of her crimson mouth, and said, boyishly:

"Is my honey-baby sore at her rough sweetie-man? Maybe he's talkin' up out o' turn. If he is, it's becus he's woozy-woozy, goofy-goofy over his li'l woman-woman . . . Does she forgive the brutal beast?"

Annie sensed her advantage. She loathed the swine. She sighed and said:

"Light me a smoke, Silk."

He looked at her querulously, curiously. Then he lighted a cigaret.

"Here," he said, heavily, and he inserted the cigaret into her deadly mouth. "You hate my guts—an' I know it. But I'm nuts about you, fire-top. Take a lungful o' that. No other woman ever heard me pull that kind o' speech."

"No other woman ever will, Big Boy. I'm dynamite. When they're through with me, their pals are sayin' prayers over 'em. Now—sit down. I've put up with this just about enough. You want me to breeze out o' here?"

Silk Freeman backed up. He looked at her, seriously, concentratedly.

"I don't know, beautiful," he said.

"Don't know—what?"

"Don't know whether to kiss you or kill you."

There was a knock on the door. Pete spoke:

"Yes, Chief," he said, "Here's the breakfast."

"The hell with breakfast!" shouted Freeman. "Can't I have some privacy in my own home?"

Fay King Again Urges Potato Plants as a Pretty Home Decoration

FAY. KING

By FAY KING.

Last summer I wrote about seeing such a pretty plant, which was nothing more than a sweet potato placed in a bowl, the under half of the potato being kept submerged in water.

Later, readers wrote me how delighted they were with the sweet potato "ferns" they started.

Sweet potatoes are more plentiful now and some have written to ask again about the sweet potato plant. So I write of it again.

One reader, at this time, wrote to tell me that a large carrot, scooped out deep enough at the top to keep filled with water, also makes a cute hanging plant. Small holes are bored at the top to which string or a strand of picture wire can be attached.

Think I'll try one.

Love's Reawakening

Continuation of Love's Awakening

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge "Sugar-Coats" Bad News for Mary.

There was something so like a sob in Mary's voice as she put her bitter little query unconsciously betraying her envy of Marion's youthful happiness and enthusiasm, that my first impulse of amusement, because she is less than two years older than Marion, was turned into deep compassion mingled with a feeling of guilt.

For I knew only too well what had called forth that dolorous outburst. While she is so near Marion's actual age, yet in experience and suffering she is at least a decade further along Life's highway. There was within her a consuming fire, fueled by her creative ability, her overpowering ambition, her dislike of systematic control, and her restlessness which would not let her be young and carefree as were Marion and her school friends.

Yet she was young enough to yearn for the girlish good times which had formed no part of her life. I remembered her plaint when we were planning Marion's vacation festivities that she "never had slung a party in her life." I also remembered my impulsive promise to her that she should "sling" one all her own during the holidays, a promise which ever since I had been turning over dubiously in my mind, because of the singular paucity of young acquaintances which the child had.

That my little feeling of guilt was morbid and unjustified, I knew. Mary's own ambition and her restless temperament had been responsible for her isolation.

True, she had had more romantic excitement, more masculine admiration than would come to an ordinary girl in a lifetime.

But of adolescent young fun of school dances and festivities, of vacation parties, such as were now Marion's lot, she had experienced nothing, and as I watched her staring at the wall, for she had let her eyes rest on mine for only a moment, I made a swift resolve. I had not the slightest idea how I could manage, but I made up my mind that Mary should "sling a party" all her own before she was forty-eight hours older.

It was rashness to promise it to her when I was so at sea, but I had some disagreeable news to give her, and I knew no better way of sugar-coating the pill, than to tell her my resolve.

"Mary! Get up and get dressed as quickly as you can. We're going shopping. You need an evening dress and an evening wrap, and you are going to have them as part of your Christmas. But I want you to select them yourself. You may not be able to decide on them this afternoon, but we'll have time to take a preliminary look around anyway."

She was on her feet before I had finished, her eyes enormous with surprise, her mouth quivering into a smile.

"Oh, Auntie Madge!" she said breathlessly. "How perfectly heavenly. "But—" with a patent sobering second thought, "you mustn't. It's too much for you. And—then—where do I go to wear things like that. They'd be out of style before I got a chance to wear them even once."

"That's going to be my business, where you wear them," I said. "And, if you'll promise to be a good, obedient little girl, I'll tell you an important secret."

"I promise," she said demurely, folding her hands together in a little girl fashion.

"You're going to wear them for the first time either tomorrow night, or the next, when you 'sling a party,' isn't that the atrocious term you use?—all your own."

Her eyes were starry for a second, then quickly shadowed.

"But—" she stammered, "I don't know anybody and—what about Noel?"

It was the question I had been dreading, for I, myself, did not know what I was to do about the nerve-racked boy at the farmhouse.

"Will you please leave all the details to me?" I asked severely, and Mary grinned unexpectedly.

"Nice name you're calling the boy," she said, and I saw that her natural longing for normal gaity had banished her worry over her fiance for a little time at least. She was so girlishly lovely in her excitement that I basely put off my real errand to her. I would not shadow her enjoyment, I told myself, with my news about Philip Veritzen, until the last possible minute before our dinner engagement with Noel's implacable father.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Friday, November 14

In business affairs, property interests, industry and labor, according to the sidereal influences, there may be a notable breaking up of crystallized conditions, long thwarting and frustrating. This should assist with new plans, and, in the fresh avenues of endeavor, as the spirit of initiative is stimulated. But there is a loophole for fraud, misrepresentation and treachery, and also the personal affiliations are under an afflicting planetary ray bringing discord and unhappiness.

Those whose birthday it is may find a year in which old obstacles may be removed to make way for fresh ventures and bold initiative in cherished plans, but there is an element of trickery and underhand dealings, calling for much alertness and precaution.

A child born on this day should be enterprising, steady and industrious, but possibly will incline to shrewdness and subtlety, intrigue or diplomacy.

These Modern Lovers

Kisses used to be given, taken, stolen or exchanged; now, they are just passed around like bonbons or cigarets and you help yourself.

Of all the weighty and tiresome burdens, the heaviest to keep "carrying on" is a worn-out love-air, or a marriage in which the engine has gone dead.

A man goes to his lawyer for advice, to his stenographer for sympathy and to his club-fellows for amusement—and then wonders why his wife doesn't "understand" him.

Even a husband who is never on time for dinner, sort of punctuates a woman's day and gives the clock a meaning for her.

Tell a girl that she hasn't any sense and she'll laugh at you; tell her that she hasn't any willpower and she'll agree with you; but tell her that she hasn't any sex-appeal and she'll hate you.

If a man would only let go and enjoy the sensation, when he feels himself falling in love, as a woman does, he would discover that marriage, like ether, is much easier to take when you don't struggle against it.

A woman may prefer to tell only a polite fib or a white lie; but when a man goes in for perjury, he likes to make it a MASTERPIECE.

Self-persecution is the first law of fashion! This is the time of year when a girl stops trying to look cool in a wool sweater or a pair of long pajamas, and begins trying to look warm and cozy in a backless evening gown and invisible hose.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Milk and Its Vitamin Content

Recently I told you about Vitamins A and B. Today I am going to say a few words about Vitamin C.

DR COPELAND

Milk has always been sponsored as the ideal food for infants and growing children. Yet we frequently see children who have received their daily quota of milk and do not thrive well. Such children are often anemic and develop poor teeth. This can be explained by the fact that milk is poor in Vitamin C content. The poorly developing child is lacking a certain vitamin content in his daily diet, and the milk has been solely dependent upon for this necessary element.

Vitamin C is the element necessary for the normal growth and nutrition of the body. It is found in many foods, but particularly in orange, lemons, limes and tomatoes.

Vitamin C is contained in milk, but to a slight degree. The amount of Vitamin C in the milk is variable with the ration of the cow and with the treatment the milk receives before it is sold to the public. Such factors as the feeding of the cow, the storage of the milk, the cooling, straining, pasteurization and particularly the repasteurization of the milk, tend to decrease the amount of Vitamin C.

It is for this reason that I would advise the giving of supplementary foods, such as orange juice or tomato juice. Both of these juices are extremely rich in their content of Vitamin C. For this reason they are often spoken of as "antiscorbutic" foods, meaning they will prevent scurvy.

Since milk is not particularly rich in vitamin C content, and for that matter is not particularly high in content of other vitamins, too much faith must not be placed in this food. I do not mean to belittle the value of milk, for the infant and growing child, but there are other important elements that must be given to insure perfect health and growth.

It is the advice of all leading baby specialists that food substances rich in vitamins should be introduced in the diet of the infant during the nursing period. This is true whether breast fed or artificially fed. Your baby is never too young to have an occasional teaspoonful of orange or tomato juice added to its feeding. Oranges, lemons, limes and tomatoes should always grace your table in some tempting form for the older children.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Courteous Theater Behavior

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When a girl is attending a theater, is it correct for her to rise as another person moves to go out? My girl friend and I have been debating this subject and have decided to write to you for help. R. W. M.

It is better form for her to rise, since this is the kinder thing for her to do, the more courteous thing. It is really very difficult in the usual theater, for a person going out to pass a person who is seated. So we are doing our act of kindness and helpfulness if we rise. And this shows a flexibility of courtesy that is most pleasant—don't you like it when other people do this for you? I don't know of any other occasion when it is more true that we should "do unto others as we would that they should do to us."

When the Young Lady Receives Callers

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Q.—When introducing a boy to your parents at your home, how should the introduction be made? D. A.

A.—When you introduce the young man to your mother say, for instance, "Mother, may I present Mr. Allen?" or "Mother, this is Mr. Frank Allen," or "Mother, may I introduce Mr. Frank Allen," or "Mother, Mr. Allen."

When you introduce him to your father, say, "Father, this is Mr. Allen," or "Father, may I present Mr. Allen."

Tell It to Sally

By SALLY MARTIN

Does Fate Spin a Jinx Into the Lives of Good Men and Women?

Do Good People always get Good Breaks?

For years 'n' years maxims 'n' copy books have been telling us that they did. And Lydia took 'em at their word. So did Rolph.

Ever since they marched up the aisle together, they'd been happily absorbed in their little business . . . and succeeding at it.

Then Rolph, through his very kindness and goodness, took a snake into their eden. A clever crook, who first put up a hard-luck story . . . and then robbed them. And when the crash came, Rolph, his business wrecked, and his confidence betrayed, took his own life.

"Why, why did things have to happen like that?" cries Lydia, out of her anguished widowhood. "He was so good! So kind! Why did God let something like that happen to him?"

"Dear Sally Martin:—

"I wonder if you can help me. My heart is broken

"It all began when my husband took a partner into our little business. Ever since we were married 10 years ago, we had run it together, and we were so happy and busy and contented. I didn't want to take anyone else in, but this man put up a hard-luck story about how he had been gyped by dishonest people, and wanted to get in with someone who was honest.

"So Rolph took him in. And he robbed us, Sally. He wrecked our business. He did it legally, so we couldn't get anything on him. But that made it worse. More crushing and discouraging. And when Ralph found out how his confidence had been betrayed, he took his own life.

"And we loved each other so! And Rolph was so good. During all our life together, nothing was ever too hard for him to do for me. We lived a truly beautiful life, even though we both worked very hard.

"Rolph was always so good to everyone. He wouldn't have hurt a fly. Oh, why, why did this terrible thing have to come to him when he was so good? Don't you think such things should come only to those who are bad?

"I think that a man who has never done anything wrong in this life, even though fate decrees that he must die young—Rolph was only 35—should at least die a natural death, don't you?

"Oh, I am so broken and bewildered. Life seems so hard, so mean, when things like this must happen.

"I try to carry on, but things seem so useless now. It's all so unfair, when you try so hard to be as good as you can, and to do the best you can by everybody, to have to be overtaken by such a terrible blow. So terribly, terribly unfair!

"I've tried to comfort myself with the thought that what must be must be, but it's hard. Do you believe that it was the will of God that he takes his own life? Shouldn't his goodness have counted for something in the scheme of things? I've always been taught that it should. I just can't understand it. Lydia."

You poor soul, you! How I wish that I could clasp your hand and bring you comfort and courage.

But you are all wrong, honey, when you blame "Fate" or the Almighty for your tragedy. We make our own fate in this world. We make it, not always by our "goodness" or our "badness," but by our carefulness or our carelessness. And goodness won't go very far unless you use gumption with it.

Life isn't going to stand around and protect Good People just because they are good. Good people must protect their own goodness—they must use as much shrewdness and caution as any other class of people. They should, indeed, use more, for it's a great responsibility to be good. You've got to prove that goodness pays. If, by your own stupidity, you let goodness be betrayed, then you are almost as bad as the crook who betrays it.

Why do bad people so often succeed where good people fail? Because bad people take more pains with their badness than good people take with their goodness...They don't just sit down and expect results the way good people do. They hustle—and keep a watchful eye on the next fellow. It isn't a virtue to "trust everyone." It's a vice—and we usually pay for it very dearly.

Was it the Will of God that your good man should take his own life? What a dreadful monster you make of God, child! We poor, muddled humans take our lives because we can't think things through straight. We think we've come to the end—and so we go out in terror and despair. But your Rolph hadn't come to the end. And I don't think he has come to the end even yet — Lydia dear — even though he may be what men call dead. He learned a lesson, and it was a hard one. And now I'm quite sure that somewhere he goes on, and some day you'll find each other again. I'm praying that it is so.

He called her a lifeless saint

Vivian Grey's thrilling new novel of an old fashioned girl who rebelled

"LOVE her! Don't make me laugh! Might as well talk about loving an innocent little kitten. I want a woman with some experience, some feeling, some temperament — not a lifeless saint who's never been kissed!"

Emilie sat up with a start. Concealed by the back of the large chair, the two men did not know that she was near.

"Of course. She's the richest deb in town—and I need the money."

"Your a lucky fellow, Warren."

"Lucky? I'm not so sure about that. It's no fun being engaged to one girl when you're wild about another."

Emilie listened, tense with amazement. This was the man she had promised to marry! This was the man who—in spite of everything—she still loved!

Should she give him up—or should she go through with the marriage? He had tricked her. Called her a lifeless saint. If only she could prove—. A daring plan flashed through her mind! She smiled grimly to herself. "All right, Mr. Warren Landon," she mused, "we'll see how much of a saint I am . . ."

The name of the sensational NEW MOTOR FUEL announced for the first time in yesterday's newspapers is

ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH

at over 35,000 pumps

DRIVING CONDITIONS are radically different from those of a few years ago. There are three times as many automobiles as in 1920 . . . thousands of traffic-lights and semaphores, with cars lined up in columns for the get-away . . . numerous stop-streets, at which you must come to a complete stop before crossing or entering. Automobile engines have been redesigned—their fuel requirements changed.

All of these things point to the need for a new and better motor fuel . . . one developed especially to meet modern driving conditions.

Safety, for example, frequently depends upon the ability of your car to thread its way swiftly and surely through traffic. A "lazy" gas which does not respond instantly to your touch may easily get you into serious trouble.

Comfort—particularly in a closed car—requires a gasoline that will give off no foul odors.

Economy is a factor worth careful consideration. Even for a small or medium-size car, you buy many gallons of fuel in the course of a year. You want a gasoline that will give you most mileage . . . and will not leave deposits of hard carbon, or corrode the vital parts of your motor.

Satisfaction in your automobile requires that the gasoline you use give maximum performance under all conditions. Instant starting in the coldest weather. Quick pick-up on the straightaway. Power on hills, without the power-robbing "ping," or knock.

A motor fuel meeting these requirements has been developed, through literally years of research, by one of the oldest, most progressive refining companies in the world. Its name is ATLANTIC WHITE FLASH! Watch for further details in this newspaper tomorrow—and plan to buy your first tankful Saturday!

TITLE NOT LIKELY TO CHANGE HANDS

IN AN AGE of Queensberry stalling that sees some title-holders keeping their crowns safe by persistently dodging matches with worthy challengers, or demanding that they come in above the class limits so that the honors will not be at stake, it is refreshing to find one new champion willing to risk his laurels in less than four months, as Al Singer will do in New York tomorrow night when he meets Tony Canzoneri for 15 rounds in defense of the world lightweight diadem.

Al Singer

Perhaps Singer isn't the greatest lightweight that ever sat on the throne once occupied by Jack McAuliffe, Kid Lavigne, Frank Erne, Joe Gans, Battling Nelson, Ad Wolgast, Benny Leonard and others, but at least he is acting as a champion should in showing a willingness to take a chance with his title. It is true, that this match was stipulated by the New York Boxing Commission before Singer was given his chance to win the championship from Sammy Mandell, but it is also true that Al is going through with it in less than the commission's prescribed time limit of six months.

AND IT CAN'T be said that the fortunes of other ring champions in 1930 have been of a sort to give Singer a feeling of safety. On the contrary, it has been a tough year for fistic kings. No fewer than four of them have been knocked off. In addition to the dethroning of Mandell by Singer himself, Jackie Fields was stripped of the welterweight laurels by Young Jack Thompson, the last named was unseated in turn by Tommy Freeman, and Jimmy Slattery was defeated for the light-heavyweight mantle by Maxie Rosenbloom.

If Singer had been seeking set-ups he certainly would have steered clear of Canzoneri, as he knows the latter's ability not only from Tony's fine record, but also from personal experience. For these two met in New York two years ago, and though the verdict was a draw after 10 rounds, many of the ringsiders contended that the decision should have been given to Canzoneri. During the last five years Tony has met almost all of the best boys in the bantamweight, featherweight and lightweight classes. He was featherweight champion before he was 23 years old.

Tony Canzoneri

A PUPIL OF Pete Herman, former bantam champion, Canzoneri started fighting as an amateur eight years ago in New Orleans. After winning 17 consecutive bouts and the Southern 100-pound title, he went to New York at the age of 18 and continued his amateur activities with such success that he captured the junior national crown at 118 pounds and also the international bantam honors, engaging in 84 bouts in 18 months.

Tony turned pro in 1925. He received $40 for his first fight, in which he stopped Jack Gardner in one round. He climbed rapidly in three years, and on February 10, 1928, won the world featherweight championship by defeating Benny Bass, losing it 10 months later to Andre Routis on a questionable decision. He has earned more than $250,000 in the ring, and has saved a sizable part of it.

THOUGH CANZONERI WAS defeated last year by Mandell, who later lost to Singer, that was at a time when Mandell could make the lightweight limit without weakening himself. Tony holds a string of victories over other prominent battlers, such as Joey Sangor, Armando Santiago, Phil McGraw, Andre Routis, Ignacio Fernandez, Cecil Payne, Eddie Anderson and Sammy Dorfman. In spite of Canzoneri's unquestionable class, however, Singer looks like the probable winner of the New York title bout. He is a harder hitter than Tony, has improved more than the latter since their first meeting in 1928, and ought to win if the knockout administered by Jimmy McLarnin did not take any of the aggressiveness out of him. It shapes up as a real fight, with the champion retaining his title.

FIGHT FANS HERE and elsewhere have expressed wonder that Kid Chocolate, rather than Fidel La Barba, should be given the chance to meet Battling Battalino for the world featherweight championship at New York's Christmas Fund show on December 12, inasmuch as La Barba recently defeated Chocolate decisively.

The explanation is that Battalino would not accept La Barba as an opponent. Chocolate has pledged himself to meet La Barba within 30 days if he wins the title, as he is generally expected to do. Battalino will kick back to charity 2½ of his 37½ per cent, and Chocolate will donate 2½ of his 12½ per cent. As Boxing Commissioner Muldoon remarked when told of this arrangement, "It is something, but hardly enough."

THE SONS OF famous coaches or former stars have broken into collegiate football this year in unusual numbers. Fielding Yost, Jr., and Willie Heston, Jr., have been fall gridiron figures at Michigan, Joe Thompson, Jr., was a quarterback candidate at Brown, and sons of Alonzo Stagg and Pat Page also have been active.

Dave Cavanaugh

Another, who began to attract attention only recently, is Dave Cavanaugh, son of Maj. Frank W. Cavanaugh, head coach at Fordham. The younger Cavanaugh has not yet won his spurs as a member of the Fordham squad, but he is said to show considerable promise. His father, in his playing days, was a star end at Dartmouth.

HARRY BEESON WRITES from Uniontown: "On the question as to Jack Quinn's age, he is as near 55 as 50. I sold him a baseball glove more than 35 years ago, in the spring of 1895, and he was at least 18 then. While pitching for a back-lot Connellsville team he accidentally hit Ed McCullough on the head, severely injuring him. McCullough, who was playing for the Ohiopyle club, is now past 53. Quinn pitched for Dunbar and other clubs long before he joined the regular Connellsville league team 27 years ago. P. Malloy, now owner of a billiard room in Uniontown, was his catcher in those days. But, in spite of his age, Jack still has a lot of good pitching left in his old arm and head."

THE RELEASE OF Al Bool to the Boston Braves leaves the Pirates with only two catchers, Ralston Hemsley and Hal Finney. The management, of course, would not think of going into a pennant race with such a restricted backstopping crew.

It is a safe guess, therefore, that the Buccaneer bosses saw the way clear to the acquiring of another receiver before they parted with Bool, and that a deal for an experienced maskman will be among the winter developments.

CARNEGIE TECH MADE Notre Dame work harder than did any other opponent of the Irish in football this season, according to no less an authority than Coach Knute Rockne. The latter gave that

The latest handiwork of Pittsburgh's master hockey craftsman, Roy D. Schooley, will be exhibited at Duquesne Garden at 8:30 tonight when his Yellow Jackets meet the London Panthers in the inaugural battle of the International Professional League's 1930-31 campaign.

In the many years that he has been fashioning ice teams here Schooley has put together some powerful combinations, and the Jackets of today appear to measure up to his high standard. The new standard-bearers are young, big, fast and ambitious, and a mixture made up of these ingredients ever has been easy for the home fans to swallow, but rough on a foeman's throat.

Mayor Charles H. Kline will face off the puck to start tonight's battle, and Charles S. King, president of the International League, is to be present.

Tory Gregg, big right wing, who has all the earmarks of a fine leader, was appointed captain of the Jackets by officials of the local club this morning.

PANTHERS WELL KNOWN

Of the two teams who are to introduce the international brand of hockey here, the visiting Panthers are best known to local enthusiasts. None of the 16 stalwarts on the Jacket squad ever has shown here before, but no less than five of the London puckmen are familiar with Pittsburgh ice. Archie Briden, left wing, and Toots Holway, big defense man, are former Pirates. Reise, another husky defender, appeared here many times with the New York Americans, and Loughlin, a third backfielder, is a former Chicago and Detroit National Leaguer. Grosvenor, the Panther center, used to come here with Ottawa. Of the London starters, only Stewart, in the nets, and Goldsworth, at right wing, are new to local fans.

The 16 husky youngsters who are to take their initial bow in the yellow and black jacket livery tonight probably will be very well known to local fans tomorrow, for they plan to make themselves very conspicuous against London. Under the direction of President-Manager Schooley and Coach Charles Reid, they have been drilling diligently for the last three weeks. The Jacket chiefs have had a wealth of material with which to work and they have moulded well. All are ready for the bell.

LOCALS BIG, RANGY

The probable Pittsburgh starting lineup averages close to 180 pounds, and all are close to six feet tall. Indications are that Green and Yankoski will be at the defense points in front of Goalie Fisher, and that Gregg and Proudlock will flank Fields on the front line. LaRoche and Buck Moore probably will team with Center Halliday as the first reserve forward combination.

Red Moore, McBride and Berlett will provide defense relief, and Ouellette, McLeod, McIntyre and Smith will be available for third front line duty.

London's veteran campaigners are favored to win the International League title, but Schooley's big puckmen are full of fight, and everything points to a real battle.

The Panthers held a light workout at the Garden this morning, and the Jackets were put through a drill in which their activities were limited to skating.

Yellow Jackets Have Support Of Schooley

In a pre-game statement Roy D. Schooley, president of the Yellow Jackets, said today:

"It should be remembered that the Yellow Jackets are meeting probably the strongest team in the league in the opening game tonight. I know our boys will give them all they have, regardless of the outcome. If we win, we will, naturally, be pleased. If we lose, I will not be disappointed in our team.

"Due to being held up by the immigration authorities, they are being forced to start the opening game with a curtailed training season.

"Not having seen the other team, it is impossible for me to make any prediction. But, regardless of the outcome tonight, I will remain confident that Pittsburgh has team worthy of our best hockey traditions."

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY—THE STOOPER OF NEPAL—Bairagi Pranputti, the holy stooper of the temple of the Five-Headed Lingam at Pashpatinath, the sacred city of Nepal, has been standing in the position I depicted for 30 years. During that time his fingernails have grown into the palms of his hands through the soil, while his hair has grown into a curtain overhanging his face. He receives his food from the hands of pious pilgrims and passersby, who move the dense curtain of hair aside while they feed him. My drawing is after an original photo taken in Nepal in 1924. TOMORROW—MAN WHO CAN'T BE KILLED.

AL BOOL SOLD TO BRAVES

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

With Albert Bool shorn of his Pirate raiment, the Buccaneer catching staff today is in a precarious condition, but fortunatey doubleheaders and that sort of thing are far, far away.

Al Bool

Farmer Al, the Nebrasky strong man, is now a chattel slave of the Bill McKechnie plantation, he having been sold to the Braves yesterday. But if you could see Al, he probably would be wearing a smile. It is no "down-the-river" transaction as far as Bool is concerned. The big boy loves work, and he may get more opportunity to catch in Boston.

MUM ON CATCHER SOUGHT

By inference, officials of the Pittsburgh team indicate a deal is cooking that will bring a good catcher to the Buccaneer fold, but they refuse to admit that the athlete wanted is either Jimmy Wilson, of the Cardinals, or Clyde Sukeforth, of the Reds, the stars whose names have been brought into the conversations, with or without warrant.

The fact that the Pirate catching staff is now made up of one kid, who has proved a disappointment, and another who has yet to catch a major league game does not worry the Pittsburgh officials, apparently.

AL LIKES ACTION

Bool leaves many admirers in his departure from Pittsburgh. Manager Ens, apparently, figured Farmer Al to be lacking as a major league receiver, but Skipper Bill, of the Braves, evidently thinks Al has the goods. This writer's view is that Al could catch for almost any man's ball club, provided he were worked daily.

Boss McKechnie, of the Braves, by the way, is on one of his seasonal hunting excursions, but he probably negotiated with Dreyfuss and Ens before he left for the woods. Bill will be back in his Wilkinsburg home in a day or two.

Slippery Rock's Grid Card Set

SLIPPERY ROCK, Pa., Nov. 13.—Word that Grove City College had given Slippery Rock a place on its 1931 football schedule was hailed with much enthusiasm here following an announcement by Faculty Manager E. B. Cottrell. The game, to be played October 10 at Grove City, brings together two age-old rivals. The schedule:

September 19, Lock Haven (pending); September 26, Westminster, away; October 3, California, at home; October 10, Grove City, away; October 17, St. Francis, away; October 24, Clarion, away; October 31, Indiana, at home; November 7, Edinboro, away; November 14, Waynesburg, at home.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The lightweight championship fight at Madison Square Garden Friday night between Al Singer, the titleholder, and Tony Canzoneri, will be broadcast through Station WEAF and a National Broadcasting Company network, it was announced today. The Pittsburgh station is WCAE. The fight will go on the air at 9:30 o'clock.

O. S. U. TO FIND TACKLES HARD TO STOP

By JESS CARVER.

Messrs. Bell, Baumgarten and Haubrich, who play the tackles position for Ohio State, two at a time of course, may look forward to a very interesting afternoon as they stand opposed to Pitt's Panther eleven Saturday afternoon in Columbus.

Bob Haubrich

The tackles on any ball club that faces Pitt generally have it tough, for the Warner offense is noted for its off-tackle punch. First it smacks outside, and then inside, or vice versa, and ofttimes, with its dangerous reverses, forces the defense to concentrate on the outside positions, weakening the center of the line to such an extent that on a fake or spinner, the fullback drills through for long gains.

ATTACK POWERFUL

It was such an attack that leveled West Virginia this year; that beat Syracuse and paved the way for the victory over Tech. At Nebraska, the Husker ends and tackles were played in close, stopping Pitt's off-tackle drives fairly successfully, especially on the goal line. Halfback Frahm, backing up the line, proved his mettle by stopping Clark when Jimmy attempted to shoot at center, and as a result, Nebraska tied Pitt.

Baumgarten and Haubrich stood up well under the attack Navy leveled at 'em last week. Bell was not in the ball game, the big Negro star having been protested by the Middies. Pitt's off-tackle attack is a lot tougher than that of Navy, and the Bucks, both ends and tackles, are bound to find it a lot tougher stopping Panther slashes than they did nailing the Sailors.

Pitt will hold its final hard practice in preparation for the game in Columbus this afternoon. The offense will get a careful checking. So will the defense. Sutherland will put his club through a drill tomorrow morning before entraining at 2 o'clock for the scene of the battle.

HOLMAN CONFIDENT

Head Coach Sam Willaman's prediction that Pitt will win by two touchdowns is not shared by one of his assistants. Allan Holman, who quarterbacked for Ohio last year and has been scouting Pitt this fall, said after the game with Tech last Saturday that he thought Ohio could beat Pitt. Brother Holman's crack is quite refreshing, after hearing Rockne, Sutherland and Stagg and other of these coaches popping off all fall about how bad they were going to be trimmed.

Of course, Mr. Holman may be all wrong. If he thought Pitt played as Pitt teams are supposed to play in beating Tech, he had better check up a bit. What a shock it will be to the tender sensibilities of Mr. Holman if Pitt happens to wake up and click Saturday. Mr. Holman will be shocked out of a year's growth.

The first of the three special trains to be run from here to Columbus, toting Pitt students and alumni followers, will leave tomorrow afternoon at 5 p. m. The second will pull out at 1:30

MY FIFTY YEARS IN BASEBALL

By CONNIE MACK,
Manager, World Champion Philadelphia Athletics

INSTALLMENT NO. 58.

Up to this time I was undecided myself. I still had in mind Earnshaw, but had the feeling that Ehmke might decide it was his day.

Connie Mack.

As Collins was about to leave, Ehmke came to the door and with a smile on his face, looked at me and asked:

"Who's your pitcher?"

"I haven't made up my mind yet," I replied.

"Well, I'm ready," he went on, "and will go if you say the word."

Without hesitating, I cried firmly: "You're the man!"

"Fine, this is my day."

Everybody was in doubt in those hours previous to the game. The secret was so well kept that even members of the team didn't know.

I suppose the question of my pitcher was put to me every minute or so, it seemed, but nobody was enlightened.

I preferred to break the news just before the game by the mute evidence of Ehmke warming up.

Sure enough, when warming up time came I gave him the ball and he alone of my fingers began to toss the ball to the catcher.

As I was sitting on the bench watching Ehmke unwind practice pitches, one of my best players was sitting next to me. When he saw Ehmke was the only pitcher getting ready, he turned to me in a voice of astonishment and said:

"Is Ehmke going to pitch?"

"Yes," I replied, "don't you like him?"

"Yes, if you do, for I know that you know better than I do who should pitch. In fact, I don't know anything about pitching."

I wouldn't be human if my heart didn't leap at that player's remarks, for it showed he had confidence in my choice.

REGULARS PLAY THROUGH

I used as my regular lineup, Bishop at second, Haas in center, Cochrane behind the bat, Simmons in left, Foxx at first, Miller in right, Dykes at third and Boley at short.

These eight regulars played in every inning of the five games and only my pitchers were changed.

Root opposed Ehmke and if neither side scored in the first six innings the astonishment grew in the fact that Ehmke did so well. Root was one of McCarthy's most dependable curvers.

The Cubs in those first six innings had two chances to score. They had runners on third and second twice, but each time Ehmke pitched himself out of the hole by fanning the next two hitters.

FOXX HITS HOMER

In the seventh inning, the Athletics broke the scoreless tie when Jimmy Foxx smashed a massive home run into the bleachers in left center with the bases bare, but that one run looked big at the time.

Root was taken out for a pinch hitter at the end of the seventh and Bush replaced him in the eighth with the score 1 to 0 in our favor.

We had two hectic innings ahead before we could shout. Neither side scored in the eighth, but, in the ninth, Cochrane opened for us with a clean single and then English made consecutive errors on Simmons and Foxx that filled the bases.

In this pinch, Bing Miller came through with a savage single that scored two runs and clinched victory.

The only Chicago run came in their last stand. With one out, Dykes made a two-base wild throw on Cuyler, who scored on Stephenson's single. Grimm also hit safely and the Cub followers sniffed a rally.

Blair batted for Gonzales and forced Grimm, Dykes to Bishop. With runners on third and first and two out, Ehmke ended the game in royal style when he fanned Pinch-hitter Tolson, who acted for Bush, and ended the game.

Moreover it was Ehmke's thirteenth strikeout of the battle.

The A's ran off the field happy because our "dark horse" pitcher had won.

To my mind, winning that first game with Ehmke was the crucial stroke of the series. My players cannot get too much credit for that wonderful victory.

It was more than winning just one game. I had won with a total outsider and still had the heavy winners on my staff in reserve for the next games. This put us at a big advantage.

Floor Notes

Miss Clara Templeton is the latest addition to the Boldenson Vanities, champion girls' basketball team of the tri-state district. She is a former star forward of the Temple University sextet of Philadelphia. The Vanities will play a road schedule this year due to the loss of their home floor, the South Side Market House.

St. Michael's Lyceum plans to make a determined bid for the West Penn League championship this winter. St. Michael's is one of the two new members of the circuit.

John St. Clair, former center of the Oklahoma University quintet in the Big Six, will be given a trial by the Fintex team in the Allegheny County League. St. Clair stands 6 feet 2½ inches, and will give Reilly and Foley a keen fight for the pivot post.

The Comptometer Girls plan to enter one of the local leagues this season, according to information given out by Catherine Plaster, manager of the team. The Comptometer Company also will sponsor a reserve team.

'Y' FIVES MEET TONIGHT

By JULIUS LEVIN

The basketball season in the Greater Pittsburgh district will get under way tonight at the Young Men's and Women's Hebrew Association when the varsity and reserve quintet representing that institution on the floor engages the Hill Top Y. M. C. A. passers in a doubleheader. The first contest is slated to get under way at 8 o'clock. The Bellefielders have been working hard under the coaching of Meyer (Buck) Gefsky, former star guard of the old Coffey Club, and are in the best of condition for the inaugural. The reserves, under the coaching of Dave Mervis, also a former Coffey Club veteran, likewise are ready for action.

Ben Lubic.

Several new faces will appear in the lineup of the Y. M. H. A. when the Bellefielders take the floor. Ben Lubic, star forward of Chick Davies' Duquesne University quintet last year, will make his debut as a Y. regular tonight. Ben at present is coaching at Braddock Junior High School.

Lubic, during his days at Duquesne, ranked with the best forwards in the Tristate Conference and he should add considerable strength to Gefsky's floor machine.

The Hill Top Y is noted for the strong teams that has represented it on the floor and it should prove a worthy opponent for the home team tonight.

BETTER TOBACCO
NOT A COUGH IN A CARLOAD

PILOT ADMITS TIGER WEST IS GOOD

By HARRY KECK.
Sports Editor.

Indian Tiger Joe West, of Charleroi, Donora and other towns in that locality, is ambitious.

So is his manager, Butch Kestner. A good salesman of his fistic wares, Butch never ceases to sing the praises of his dusky middleweight boxer, who, he claims, is not appreciated for his real worth in these parts.

Tiger West

If you let Butch buzz you long enough on the subject, he'll have you believing his Tigerman can beat Mickey Walker, the middleweight champion, and all of the other middleweights and their uncles and aunts and grandsons. Ever since the indoor season opened he has been besieging Matchmaker Jules Beck, of Motor Square Garden, to do no less than line up Walker for West.

AFTER M'TIERNAN BOUT

Failing to get the tumble he craves, Kestner has decided upon a campaign of education for the promoters and fans of the Pittsburgh district. He recently sent West against Harry Harris, corking puncher, of Bellaire, O., at the Moose Temple, and West came off with the decision. Tomorrow night, he makes an attempt to wipe out a decision Henry Firpo, of Louisville, won over him more than a year ago at the Jolly Bowl in New Castle, and, if he is successful, Kestner will begin the good old ballyhoo for a crack at Buck McTiernan, leading local middle.

After that, the sky is the limit.

But, hold—this Kestnerian optimism is contagious. Suffice to say that the Tiger will be on exhibition in the windup at the Moose Temple tomorrow night, and Promoter Apples Meyers is wondering if the customers will be able to stay away in as copious quantities as they have there so far this season or if they will come out on the strength of West's good work to date.

CARD COMPLETED

Incidentally, Apples has completed his card for this show by signing Anastasio Vacquerie, Panamanian, of the Hill, to box Georgie Annarino, bantamweight, of Newark, O., in the six-round semi-final. He has Frank Novak and Walter Campbell, heavies, in the second bout, and Al Munro and Marty Gornick in the opener.

Between Rounds

The council of the series of four weekly clubs to produce the winners of the Western Pennsylvania amateur championships is called at the Fairmont Club, Mc-Keesport, tonight, when preliminaries will be drawn in the bantamweight, lightweight, middleweight and heavyweight classes. The tournament, put under way last Thursday and will be continued through next Thursday and the following Thursday.

Gene Morelli, of Atlantic City, who has done some battling in these parts meets Romeo Sanelli, of Philadelphia, in a 10-round bout tomorrow night at the Camden A. C., Philadelphia, where they recently fought a entire draw. At Elizabeth and Bob Schilling has another return bout in the semi-final.

In other bouts tomorrow night, Harry Gillette knocks Mat Jolly, in the main event at Mt. Kisco, N. Y.; Cyclone Lightbright is brought to Madison Square Garden, New York, with Jimmy McNamara and Billy Edwards meeting, in other 10-rounders; Ray Kinser knocks Pat Dolan at Lancaster; Tommy Herman opposes Leon Mace and Ray Williams engages Tiger Jack Fraine at the Dixie, and Andrew Gaffney and Ray Allaire battle in St. Louis.

James (Red) Mason, telephoned from Chicago that he will try to handle Tony Herrera again in the latter's return bout with Joe Glick at Motor Square Garden next Monday night. Mason says that the Eddie Brannon, Saint-Louis boy, who Jimmy Slattery in Chicago last week was one of the worst on record and just rounded such a title that there is talk of regarding the bonehead last as Hamlet. Both the Chicagoans ought to come to Pittsburgh and can find side jobs every week. Then they'd realize how well off they are.

The new Argonne gymnasium, in the Argonne Hotel, belonging to the Saltzbut Assoc., at 424 Third avenue, now is open as a training quarters for boxers.

It ought to be the leading local training clubroom because of its central location.

Johnny Edwards, of Huntington, W. Va., who fought a draw with Tiny Smith in their return bout at Washington, Pa., last Monday night, is in town and says that he was knocked out by Lindsay Lafayette, as claimed. He says he beat Broad Abbatiello but the nod went to Dexter. Harry Ashworth, Lois Carpenter, Jimmy Hallister, Roger Fiatte, Quinn Lee and others of note. He is making his headquarters at Akron.

Matchmaker Jules Beck, of Motor Square Garden, is seeking to stage two good bouts for the second card at the Garden next Monday night, the only local one open, the last Ray Newton, of Mansfield, O., with Eddie Friedman, Saint-Louis boy, of the Hill, in the eight-round semi-final and Steve Janich, of Homestead, and Johnny Montabain, of Braddock, in the opening tussle.

FIELDS MEETS PIRRONE

CLEVELAND, Nov. 17.—(AP.)—Jackie Fields, former world welterweight champion, will meet Fred Pirrone, Cleveland, in a 10-round bout at the Cleveland Colliseum Field boxing program December 10, it was announced last night.

Tomorrow, three games in Sec- n I and two in Section II will ng down the curtain for the ar, with only the intersectional le battle, which is to be fought tween Westinghouse and, bar- g accidents, South Hills, to be n off.

Westinghouse figures to turn in easy triumph in its section ale against Allderdice tomor- w, and as easy is expected to be outh's win over Fifth. Schenley gures to have a tough time with abody, with the outcome of this me in doubt.

In Section II, South Hills can nch the title by knocking off arrick, but this may be tougher an the Hillsmen figure, for Ted yons has a well drilled team at arrick and would like nothing tter than to upset all the dope d defeat South Hills. The Alle- eny-Oliver game appears to be toss-up.

The Jeannette-Charleroi night me at Charleroi heads tomor- w's non-league. W. P. I. A. L. ard. Dormont and Mt. Lebanon e up in a neighborhood fracas at will be well worth seeing. d Ben Avon and Bellevue are to new ancient rivalry with their nnual battle at Bellevue.

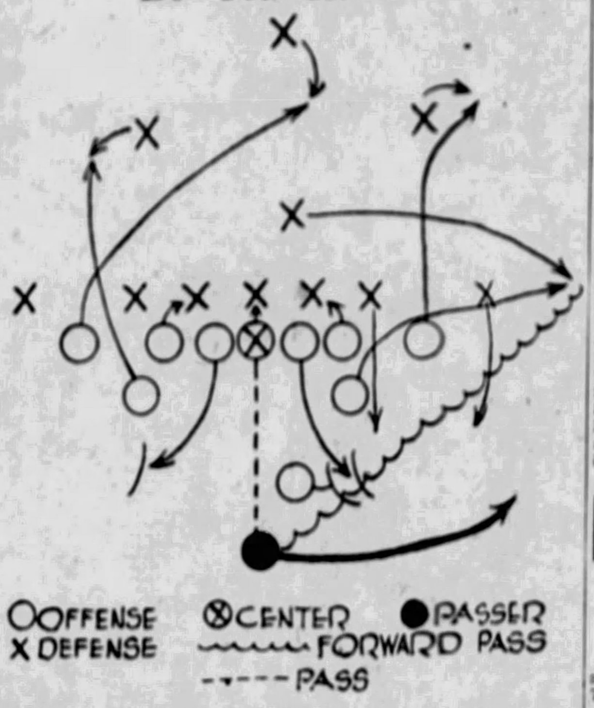
FOOTBALL FUNDAMENTALS

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback at Carnegie Tech, 1928, Now Head Coach at Geneva College.

Do You Know---



THAT Many football games have been lost because of the forward passer's careless neglect in "covering up" his passes? The average fan loses sight of the passer the instant the ball leaves his hands and little realizes that he has a very important duty to perform even after he has thrown the ball.

That duty is to cover up the throw and thereby be in a position to make the tackle in case the pass is intercepted.

In the diagram above, a flat pass to the right, the heavy line shows the proper course for the passer to take immediately after throwing the ball.

By running in the some direction that the ball has been thrown, the passer is placed in a position to stop any opponent who might intercept the pass and who otherwise would have a clear field for a touchdown.

credit to the Skibos while discussing the fact that the South Benders have not been forced so far to use more than what he calls "a few simple plays."

Not only have the Irish found it unnecessary to try for a field goal this fall, but even the forward-passing game, at which they have always ranked among the country's most proficient teams, has seldom been brought into play.

Knute Rockne

"WE HAVE USED only a few simple plays," Rockne said. "Carideo called no more than five running plays against Pitt and Penn, and just a few ordinary passes have been used. Carnegie Tech made us work harder than any other team we have met. But you can be certain that we'll have to show everything against Northwestern, Army and Southern California. I have been very lucky this season. Early in the fall I lost both regular tackles, Leahy and Donoghue, but found two better men in Kurth and Culver, and we have been fortunate in that nothing has happened to Carideo. Did you ever stop to think what a fix we'd be in if Carideo were injured? It would break up the entire offense. Carideo has gone through his football career with few injuries, and Stuhldreher was just as fortunate until his final game. The loss of a quarterback is a severe blow to a Notre Dame team."

favorable impression on local fandom, and they fear that the boys are keyed up to too high a pitch. Their fight is not to get the locals in a fighting mood, but to get them to relax.

The heavy advance ticket sale indicates that a big crowd will be out to pass judgment on the Jackets, and Schooley is confident that the fast, slashing, stiff-checking style of play in vogue in the International loop will meet with the fans' approval. The ticket prices have been reduced to $1.50 and $1, and all seats are reserved.

Vecchiolla's band will entertain early comers, and will play between periods. Fritz Campbell and John McCartney have been engaged to act as goal judges.

BURKE GOLF VICTOR

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Billy Burke, of Greenwich, Conn., yesterday won the Mid-South golf tournament with a score of 145. Emmet French, Youngstown; Tommy Armour, Detroit, and Mike Turnesa, of Elmsford, N. Y., divided second, third and fourth prize money with scores of 147.

ROYALS' RESERVES BOW

The ably-coached team of M. B. Vaniel, the Duquesne, Pa., Comets, who went through last season undefeated, added another game to their list last night when they defeated the Trinity Cathedral Royals Reserves, in the Sixth Avenue Church. Tomorrow night, at 7 o'clock, the Royals' first team tackles the Onery Club, of North Braddock.

GERMANS COP HORSE SHOW LAURELS

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—The stirring strains of Deutschland Ueber Alles reverberated through Madison Square Garden last night as the German Army team completed a clean sweep of the international military awards in winning the coveted individual trophy at the National Horse Show. One point behind the leaders trailed representatives from Canada, Sweden and the United States for the triple tie.

The three entries of Mrs. Simon T. Patterson, of Pittsburgh, were outranked in the last event in which they were entered, the Corinthian class for horses to be ridden by members of a recognized hunt.

Thundercrash, Prince H and Silm, Mrs. Patterson's bay geldings, gave fine performances, but the judges awarded the blue rosette to R. S. McLaughlin's Sharsrogue, second place going to Pierre Lorillard, Jr.'s Hindustan, and third to Page Lewis' Wood Pigeon.

PITT ATTACK POWERFUL

a. m. Saturday and the third at 7:45 a. m.

Tomorrow night, in Columbus, the students who leave here on the first special choo-choo, and the Pitt band, will parade from the Union Station to the Hotel Deschler, where Panther headquarters will be established and then to the University Club, where the Ohio State Alumni Association will put on a big smoker, to which all Pitt followers have been invited.

For once this year, the starting lineups can be figured out pretty accurately in advance. Pitt will start the same forward wall that was used against Tech and will present but one change in the backfield, where Josh Williams will be back at right half in the stead of Bulldog Reider, nursing a bruised side and a charley horse.

The Bucks figure to offer the same starting eleven that battled the Navy, with the single exception that Bell will be in at his old position at left tackle, with Baumgarten on the bench as a member of the reserve corps.

Auto Route Picked For Columbus Game

Hundreds of motorists will follow the Pitt football team to Columbus Saturday for the Ohio State game. The best route, according to the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh is U. S. 22, the William Penn Highway, through Steubenville to Cadiz, O., U. S. route 250, from Cadiz to Uhrichsville, and then Ohio route No. 16, through Newcomerstown, Coshocton and Newark to Columbus. This route is 195 miles long, but motorists taking it will make better time than over any other because it is free from detours.

Fight Results

At Toronto—Steve Rocco defeated Marty Gold, 10 rounds.

At Newark, N. J.—Doc Conrad defeated Bobby Brown, 10 rounds; Nat Arno and Harry Mosco drew, 8 rounds.

At New York—Kid Bon Bon defeated Johnny Lawson, 6 rounds.

SPORT VIGNETTES

D'ja ever hear the one about the bush league manager who was trying to sell one of his stars to a big league club? . . . . "Can he hit?" asked the major league pilot . . . . "No, but he has big hands," was the reply . . . . "So has a clock," was the comeback, and the deal was off . . . . It appears as if Young Stribling still is the Georgia Peach and a swell rassler, after that bout with Artie DeKuh . . . . Strib ought to stay away from those second-raters and give himself a break against the good ones, or he'll never be the champion he ought to be . . . . All of those big benefits for the unemployed around the country seem to have evaporated except those in Pittsburgh, where the Tech-W. & J. football tilt and the benefit boxing show at Motor Square Garden are assured . . . . At Ohio State, where Pitt will play before a crowd of 50,000 next Saturday, the newspapermen are barred from practices on Monday, Tuesdays and Fridays, but are admitted on Wednesdays and Thursdays . . . . And they take their football seriously in Columbus, even if the team doesn't win very often.

Watch Stewie Wilson, the W. & J. fullback, in the game with Bucknell at the Stadium Saturday. . . . He's a lefthanded passer and leftfooted punter . . . He has to his credit a 78-yard punt against Temple this season and has kicked 13 tries-for-point in 16 chances. . . . And Maurie Rush, the halfback, is in good playing form again after fighting off an attack of malaria fever, a stomach disorder and torn knee tendons. . . . Bucknell is plenty tough and will enter the game a good-sized favorite to win.

Last year's Pitt-Ohio State game here resulted in an 18-2 victory for Pitt . . This year, Coach Sam Willaman, of the Buckeyes, is passing around the applesauce that he will be glad to hold Pitt to two touchdowns, whereas everybody knows he confidently expects to win. . . . This Captian Eddie Baker, Pitt's star quarterback, knows his way around fairly well on the gridiron for a fellow who played only one season of high school football before coming up to the college ranks.

George Simpson, the sprinter, and Dick Rockaway, the hurdler, teammates at Ohio State, will be rivals in California next spring, for Simpson will run for the Olympic Club and Rockaway for the Los Angeles A. C. . . Buff Donnelli, former captain and fullback of the Duquesne University football team and great amateur soccer player, has been ordered not to play any more soccer following an injury to one of his eyes in a soccer game. . . . Whoever heard of anybody playing a great eye-game in soccer, anyway? . . . Buff is by way of being the freshman football coach of the Dukes. . . . Joe Pesci, track captain of the Dukes last spring, may be named track coach of the Bluffites and Ganzy Benedict, football and basketball star, is in line to become freshman basketball mentor.

Ohio links will house two of the major features of the 1931 golf campaign, the Ryder Cup matches being scheduled for Scioto Country Club at Columbus and the National Open tournament at the Inverness Club at Toledo. . . . . Who says tempus doesn't fugit? Here's the hockey season back with us, and what league are we in, if anyone knows, now that all of the smoke and uncertainty have lifted?—HARRY KECK.

Stock Exchange Topics

Wall street found little nourishment in the weekly steel trade journals, that is, so far as the immediate outlook was concerned. The Iron Age finds little prospect for improvement this side of January, and reports current rate of operations down to 44 per cent from 48 per cent a week ago. Continued weakness in scrap metal, now moving more than $3 a ton under prices prevailing a year ago, was disheartening. But prospective business in the railroad field and in the structural line was reported large in volume, and abnormally low consumer inventories were looked upon as assuring substantial improvement early in the new year. Steel stocks dipped in response to these revelations during the late morning yesterday, but both Steel common and Bethlehem were prominent on the rally which marked final dealings.

In some quarters of the speculative community the feeling was strong that the market was shaping for a formidable rally which the vast majority regard as long overdue. Nine weeks of sweeping decline, interrupted by but three or four feeble and short-lived rallies, must, it was contended, have eliminated considerable of the market's inherent weakness. The action of the list since the beginning of the week was pointed to as supporting the belief that a good rally is near at hand. Monday brought the largest turnover in a month, exceedig 4,426,000 shares, in which liquidation was a tremendous factor. Tuesday the volume tapered off sharply and yesterday business was relatively quiet, indicating that liquidation had pretty well spent its force, with renewed bear selling having become more extensive on Tuesday and again yesterday.

Without making any effort to belittle the fact that liquidation was again to have been noted in spots yesterday, it was argued that the character of the market had changed since the closing on Monday. Evidence of bear selling has been more readily discernible, particularly against some of the so-called pivotal leaders like American Can, General Electric and National Biscuit. The market has been displaying more frequent disposition to rally and recurrent reactions have been dwindling in scope. The selling in certain parts of the list, and particularly in the aforementioned stocks, has generally been interpreted as indicative of powerful effort on the part of the bear element to combat rallying tendencies.

Though the company is undoubtedly feeling the effects of unfavorable conditions prevailing in the industry, directors of the American Sugar Refining Company apparently are entirely satisfied with the outlook. At any rate the board voted the regular quarterly dividends of $1.75 a share on the preferred and $1.25 a share on the common stock due at this time. And moreover, the board continued its policy adopted several years ago, in the matter of reducing funded indebtedness, by authorising the redemption on January 1, next year, of another block of $5,000,000 of its 15-year 6 per cent bonds at 103. With the retirement of this allotment, there will remain outstanding only $13,950,000 of the original $30,000,000 issue sold in 1922. No intimation of the rate of earnings during the current year was vouchsafed, but the company earned $6.40 a share in 1929, and came into this year with over $22,500,000 in ready cash or short term loans and current assets equal to approximately eight times current liabilities of $8,536,428.

Buying power will be plentiful when sentiment changes for the better, and people believe the trend of the market is definitely upward. The earning power of the people is estimated at $90,000,000,000 annually in normal periods. Allowing for a 15 per cent shrinkage, the buying power now must be at an annual rate of $76,500,000,000. That means a big surplus will be available for investment when the time arrives, since it is human nature for people to save money in periods of depression.

Estimates of net earnings approximating $23,500,000 this year will mean another record period for National Biscuit. Such a showing would be equal to around $2.50 a share on the 6,296,775 $10 par value common shares now outstanding. In 1929, the company reported net income of $21,423,571, or $8.21 a share on the 2,389,469 $25 par value common shares then outstanding. This year's results will include earnings of recent acquisitions, including the Pacific Coast Biscuit Company.

Bethlehem Is Priced at High Yield

By GEORGE H. SNYDER

BETHLEHEM STEEL CORPORATION, second largest operator in its industry, is among the companies which have been made interesting to investors by recent declines in the stock market.

The company has suffered, along with other steel producers, from reduced prices and curtailed production but earnings for the present year are expected to be approximately equal to dividend requirements. The reecnt statement made by Eugne G. Grace, president of the company, that fourth quarter earnings would exceed those of the third quarter confirms this belief.

In the first nine months of 1929 net income of $21,552,406 was equivalent to $5.09 a share on 3,200,000 shares of common stock after deducting preferred dividends. For the third quarter net profit was $3,783,425 or 63 cents a share. This leads to the assumption that earnings for the full year will be close to $6 a share which would be equivalent to the current dividend rate on the common stock.

Earnings Decline

WHILE THIS REPRESENTS a sharp decline from 1929 when net income reached $42,242,980 or $11.01 a share on the common stock, it does not compare so unfavorably with earnings of $18,585,922 or $6.52 a share on 1,800,000 shares in 1928 and it will exceed earnings of $15,826,142 or $5.02 a share in 1927.

The outstanding amount of common stock was increased by the sale of additional shares to stockholders on two occasions in 1929.

For the five years ending with 1930, average earnings per share of $7.20 a share are indicated for the common stock. At the closing price of 62¾ yesterday the stock was selling for 8.7 times earnings.

Yields 9.56 Per Cent

AFTER A LAPSE of five years, during which the company was devoting earnings to improving plant facilities, the stock was placed on a dividend basis with a declaration of $1 a share payable May 15, 1929. The annual rate was increased to $5 a share with a declaration of $1.50 payable December 15, 1929. This rate has been maintained since that time.

At yesterday's closing price the stock was selling to yield 9.56 per cent. While Bethlehem does not have the long record of continuous dividend payments of some of the other leading steel companies, its results during the recent years and the maintenance of earnings at a fairly good rate this year make the current yield seem attractive.

Position in Industry

AT PRESENT THE company is second only to the United States Steel Corporation in the industry. Its production is confined to the eastern section of the country. If the merger with Youngstown Sheet and Tube, which is now under litigation, is completed the company will have its operations extended to the Youngstown and Chicago districts which will greatly strengthen the organization's position.

Bethlehem's Steel's funded debt is $184,339,595 and preferred stock of $100,000,000 at the close of 1929 do not seem exceptionally large in comparison with physical properties carried at a depreciated value of $455,285,080 and with total assets of $801,631,362. The financial position appeared to be sufficiently strong to provide for expansion and to insure against depression at the close of last year. Current assets totaled $228,171,775 against current liabilities of $48,926,119. Cash amounted to $29,325,704 and securities to $88,220,792.

STOCK MARKET AGAIN TURNS UPWARD

Prices Rally for Third Successive Day—Copper Shares Show Strength

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—(AP.)—Share prices rallied for the third successive day in today's stock market—a phenomenon not witnessed in weeks—but the recovery was not recovered until another flurry of selling had been absorbed in the morning.

The copper shares again displayed conspicuous strength, reflecting a further advance in the red metal price. These issues held firm during the morning, when numerous losses of 1 to 3 points were recorded elsewhere. This decline was canceled by early afternoon, however, and replaced by gains of 1 to 7 in prominent issues. Trading was moderately active.

Short covering was in large volume, as the bear retreat was accelerated by various rumors, which were, nevertheless, unconfirmable or denied. The report that the Stock Exchange was considering punitive measures against certain bears was revived. The board of governors met yesterday, but the meeting was described as routine.

Copper dealers reported that consumers were biding 10½ cents a pound for the metal, after yesterday's increase from 9½ to 10.

It is said in copper trade circles that a price of at least 14 cents would be viewed as reasonable here.

Conspicuous in the day's corporate news was the declaration of a dividend of 25 cents by Chicago and North Western, making total dividends for 1930 $4 a share, against a previous annual rate of $5. St. Louis-San Francisco ordered the regular quarterly payment of $2. October railway earnings statements, soon to appear, are expected to reflect the benefits of operating economies.

Call money was offered in the outside market as low as 1 per cent, while the official rate held at 2.

LEGGE EXPLAINS WHEAT BUYING

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Chairman of the Farm Board Legge explained today that the taking of delivery by the Grain Stabilization Corporation on December wheat futures would not change the total holdings. The decision of the Stabilization Corporation to take the delivery on the contracts, announced in Chicago Monday by George S. Milnor, president, he added, merely completed the usual contract cycle.

The chairman estimates the contracts covered about 10,000,000 bushels, including cash wheat sold by the corporation. Also certain co-operatives failed to deliver wheat, and following a market practice the warehouses which had issued receipts and did not deliver paid cash on the contracts.

While the chairman did not know how much actual wheat was in private storage in Chicago, he estimated public storage wheat at between 8,000,000 or 9,000,000 bushels, probably not quite enough to cover the December contracts of the corporation.

While the corporation has somewhat more than 60,000,000 bushels of wheat, about 10,000,000 bushels are in futures and the balance in actual wheat.

GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Nov. 13. — Grain prices averaged higher early today, influenced by reports of heavy rains in Argentina. Word of big shipments of wheat from Russia failed to act as a counterbalance. Opening at ½c off to ⅜c up, wheat afterward sagged all around, but then scored gains. Corn started at ¼c decline to ⅜c setback, and subsequently showed a general advance.

Why Not 'Half-Price' Bargains in Stocks?

By B. C. FORBES

Mr. Forbes.

THE MOST conservative of investors are now buying stocks. Industrial issues lead in favor. Certain shrewd judges are picking up public utility issues now that they have descended to a price basis yielding a reasonable income. For the long pull—say five or 10 years—railroads are not particularly popular. Some are choosing well-known bank stocks, now that quotations have declined drastically.

MUCH IS SAID and written about the severe fall in commodity prices. Few commodities, however, have tumbled as much as stocks. Copper was quoted up to yesterday at 9½ cents, but one manufacturer tells me that he has offered spot cash for a thousand tons at 9½ cents, but without finding a seller.

There are plenty of shares available at half their top price of the present year. Not a few have fallen more than 50 per cent. Among high-priced railway and industrial issues there have been declines this year exceeding $100 a share.

Under these circumstances and in view of the extremely low rates quoted for money—also the spreading feeling that the worst is either almost or quite over—it is entirely natural that investment bargain hunters should be invading Wall Street in increasing numbers.

Stores sometimes advertise "half-price sales."

Wall Street could now advertise "stocks at half-prices."

THE FOLLOWING tables present industrial and utility shares which have sold within the last few days at less than half their best prices of the current year. A list of drastic declines in railroads is also given.

DAILY TRUE STORY

'The Big Laugh'

Olive Brent used to live on Academy street, but her people moved "up on the hill," which, in Thaxton, was equivalent to saying that her people had become quite wealthy.

Olive often came back to Academy street to visit her aunt, who lived in the little house Olive's people had once occupied before their "ship came in."

"There's Olive," Mrs. Harmon said, peering through the wisteria that screened the front veranda, "and she's got a pretty car."

Cora Harmon and her friend, Janice, who also lived on Academy street, got up and looked through the wisteria screen.

"Oh, boy — pretty doggy!" Cora whispered.

"My dear," her mother scolded, mildly, "you've no call to say a word against Olive. Even if her people did get rich, she hasn't changed a particle. She's just as friendly with you as ever. She'll be over before she goes."

Janice Parker shook her head. "I think she's rather patronizing. Cora and I met her just the other day, in the music store. She had that perfectly wonderful Mr. Stephens with her and she just gave us a cold little nod—never introduced us to him at all."

Pays Visit

After Mrs. Harmon went inside and Olive Brent had entered the little house that had once been her rather humble home, Janice exclaimed: "Of course she wouldn't introduce us to Don Stephens. She isn't taking any chances of letting him fall for some other girl."

"She's coming over!" Janet whispered, after a while.

"It's good to see you again, honestly—and it's good to get down here," Olive said, sweetly. "Honestly, everything is so quiet and restful here."

"Oh, I don't know—we have plenty of fun, Olive," Janet declared, "and evenings we have no end of boy friends."

"I'll say we do," Cora added. "Just the other day, when Janice and I were walking back from the Hawley Street Tom Thumb course, we met two of the loveliest young men—they were driving a sporty car and gave us a ride home."

"Do you mean that they were strangers?" Olive asked.

Girls Disagree

"Well, we weren't strangers for long after we got in the car and introduced ourselves."

"You didn't really let two strange men pick you up?" Olive cried.

"Sure we did, and they set us down again, right here. It isn't anything now, Olive—young people have to get acquainted some way."

"It—it cheapens a girl. Really, you shouldn't do it. You know that no really nice young man would seriously care for a girl he could pick up like that."

"Nonsense. Any man will scrape an acquaintance with a strange girl if she meets him half way—they all do it. Don't tell me that your Mr. Stephens is different, Olive!" Cora declared, sharply.

"Not Don—he isn't that sort. He is a thorough gentleman—he wouldn't stoop to any pick-up."

Janice started talking about other things.

It was after Olive had gone away in her own sporty little car that Cora laughed, a trifle sneeringly.

"I don't believe Don Stephens is any different from others," she said. "I'll bet you he'd stop and pick up either of us in his car."

"I'll bet you—look here, Janice, I have a swell scheme to make him pick me up in his car up the Lake!"

"Yeah?"

"Honestly, Listen. Suppose I found out where this Don Stephens would be driving, and suppose I went out there and began to limp terribly. He'd stop and pick me up. I'd have him take me to the Lake House and Olive would see us. Then I'd hop out, toss a kiss to this Don Stephens, and go away. Olive would be furious!"

"Swell idea, Cora—gorgeous. That would sure be one big laugh on Olive, wouldn't it!"

"One big laugh on both of them," Janice agreed.

Everything seemed to give promise of working beautifully. When Cora and Janice went up to Cora's grandmother's place, Olive was already at the Lake House with her mother. Now and then, at the diving float on the lake, Olive would chat with them, but at other times she just gave them a friendly nod. Cora and Janice were secretly sore. They believed that Olive might invite them to the hotel for afternoon tea or some of the bridge games.

And then Don Stephens arrived. He occupied the pretty Stephens log cabin on a private point of land some distance from the hotel and cottage colony.

Plan Fails

In an attractive little sport dress she waited by the country road, pretending to be picking flowers when any cars came along. High up on the embankment Janice was watching. She could see up the road around a curve. When she spotted Don Stephen's car coming, she cried, "Yoo-hoo!"

That was Cora's cue.

She proceeded to limp painfully.

Sure enough, Don Stephens saw her and stopped his car. He asked her if he could help her.

Don hopped out just as Cora started to climb in.

"I'll help you, miss," he said.

"It—it hurt my foot terribly when I tried to step up," Cora complained.

Cora used her best lines on Don. She told him that she had come out for wild flowers.

"I'm awfully interested in botany, Mr. Stephens," she murmured, making eyes at him.

"I never cared much for wild flowers. I like them to be cultivated. Where shall I take you, miss?"

"The Lake House. You're just wonderful, Mr. Stephens," Cora said, huskily, trying to snuggle closer to him.

When he came to the little farm where Cora was staying with her grandmother, he stopped the car.

"Come on, little girl—you live here. It was all a nice joke—but hop out now," he said, brightly.

"Oh, no—at the Lake House. And I—I just couldn't step now—"

"Nonsense, cutie. I've seen you here often. And as for being unable to step—just try it. When you got in the car you forgot and used your supposedly lame foot as well as the other. Really, girlie, I don't quite get your game—but you handed me a big laugh!"

Regrettable Politeness

By Tuthill

MY WORD JO, WHAT'S THIS I HEAR FROM PEGGY ABOUT HARTFORD BEING IN TOWN? WHERE DID YOU SEE HIM? DID YOU TALK TO HIM? WHAT—?
YES, I'LL ADMIT I TALKED TO HIM. A FEW WORDS. BEFORE I REALIZED WHAT AN UTTERLY DUMB BLUNDER I HAD MADE IN MISTAKING OAKDALE'S OILY SMILE FOR THE WORTH-WHILE APPEARANCE OF MONTGOMERY EL DORADO.
I HEARD SOMEBODY WAS LOOKING ALL OVER TOWN FOR ME TODAY. BUT I THOUGHT IT WAS SOMEONE TRYING TO EITHER BORROW OR COLLECT MONEY AND SO I—
HE WORE A GREAT BIG COAT WITH THE LAPELS THROWN BACK TO SHOW THE SILK LINING. LEMON COLORED GLOVES. AND A CANE. EVERYTHING TO GIVE ONE THE IMPRESSION THAT HE JUST OOZED MONEY.
I WONDER WHY HE DIDN'T LET ME KNOW HE WAS COMING BACK? THAT PART OF IT IS NOT SO GOOD.
IT JUST MAKES MY FLESH CREEP EVERY TIME I REMEMBER HOW POLITE I WAS TO THAT SHEIK, AND THE MOST KILLING PART OF IT IS THAT HE ACTED AS THOUGH ME, MIND YOU, ME, WAVING TO HIM WAS AN EVERYDAY AFFAIR. UGH!
I SUPPOSE HE'S STOPPING AT ONE OF THE BIG HOTELS. THE BIGGEST ONE, PROBABLY. WELL I SUPPOSE I'LL RUN ACROSS HIM SOONER OR LATER.
I'M NOT REALLY WORRIED ABOUT THAT MAN ANY MORE. THE ONLY REASON IT GETS ON MY NERVES IS BECAUSE IT'S SO EASY TO REMEMBER WHEN PEGGY THOUGHT AS MUCH OF HIM AS SHE DOES NOW OF A NICE MAN LIKE MONTGOMERY EL DORADO.

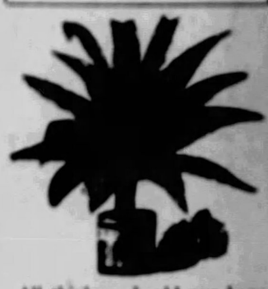
WIN A PRIZE
Handsome Gratuity for Man with Ideas.



All thinkers should now have recovered from that surprised and groggy feeling which followed administrative statements that depression was world wide. This is the time to act. If depression is world wide something should be done before it spreads further. Co-operation, according to nice people, is the very thing we needs lots more of. The only question is how to co-operate. So this handsome prize (see cut), fit for either bridge table or recreation room, is offered by disinterested parties for the best idea as how to achieve international co-operation in the fewest possible words.

Town Hall Delay

County Commissioners Have Had Plenty of Time to Choose a Location.

The County Commissioners' delay in selecting a site for the Town Hall is discouraging.

They have had more than enough time to make a choice. They had, in the first place, the benefit of the hearings held by the County Planning Commission and the Commission's recommendations. They have also had for their guidance the voluminous testimony taken at their own hearings.

And still there is no choice.

There is even talk of holding further hearings.

In the early part of the year the excuse was given for the do-nothing policy that it would not be convenient to act until the primary election was out of the way. Several months ago Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong revived hope by speaking again of the "mandate" of the people and of the desirability of going ahead with the project as a contribution towards relief of the unemployment situation. But hope is once more withering.

The public's patience is almost exhausted.

Such excuses as may be offered for shirking the job are no longer interesting.

The Taxicab Monopoly

Refusal of Public Service Commission to Permit Competition Imposes Duty to Protect the Public.

The Public Service Commission has refused the applications of the Hiland Taxicab Company and the Peoples Royal Blue Taxicab Company for certificates of public convenience.

That means that the Parmelee Company, operating the Yellow and Green cabs, is confirmed in its monopoly of taxicab service in Pittsburgh.

Granting the Parmelee Company a monopoly imposes heavy responsibility on the Public Service Commission—the responsibility of protecting the public from imposition.

The Commission has been none too energetic in protecting Pittsburghers. It has allowed the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, to which it granted a monopoly of bus service in the city, to charge 25 cents for a 10-cent ride.

A year or two ago the Yellow and Green cab companies tried to sneak over an unwarranted fare increase, and probably would have got away with it if the Sun-Telegraph had not challenged them.

It must be admitted that there might be disadvantages in having additional taxicab companies operating in Pittsburgh, but a monopoly has its disadvantages and its dangers, too.

The public will have to be eternally vigilant if it is to escape being imposed upon by the taxicab monopoly.

A Pitiful Incident

Suicide of Man About to Be Arrested for Stealing Bread Calls Attention to Charity's Demands.

As Pittsburgh's Welfare Fund campaign got under way yesterday a pitiful incident occurred to emphasize the need for generous giving to our charitable institutions.

An unemployed laborer, the father of four children, committed suicide as he was about to be arrested for stealing a loaf of bread.

It is too bad that it has taken a tragedy to shock us into realization that there are families in the community who are on the verge of starvation.

If everyone would contribute, according to his means, to the Welfare Fund, the wherewithal would be provided to relieve at least the worst of the suffering.

The appeal is a test of character. It tests if you have appreciation of civic obligation, if you are unselfish, if you are capable of self-denial.

How will you meet the test?

Roadside Beauty

It Is a Pleasure to Learn of the Plans for Trees Along the Ohio River Boulevard.

It will come as a surprise to many to learn that the County Commissioners are spending nearly $100,000 for trees, vines and shrubbery alongside the new $5,000,000 Ohio River boulevard.

The citizens are not likely to regard it as an extravagance, especially since the vegetation not only will add greatly to the beauty of the drive but will at the same time protect the banks and slopes from erosion and landslides.

We do not have enough floral beauty along our new roads. Cuts and fills are often left in an ugly condition when all that is needed to make them attractive is to spend a few dollars on landscape gardening.

Several of our public-spirited citizens have planted trees at their own expense on some of our roads, notably on a westward extension of this very Ohio River boulevard. It is gratifying to see the county taking over the duty.

Against People's Wishes

President Advocates Our Entrance Into League Court Despite the Public's Disapproval.

As if the American people were not now harassed by enough troubles of their own here at home, President Hoover selected Armistice Day to advocate anew the entanglement of their government in the League Court.

Apparently, Mr. Hoover is not paying much attention to the wishes of the Republican voters of the United States.

When the League Court was an issue in the Republican primaries earlier in the year, Anti-League Court candidates won in practically every instance. So did many Democratic candidates who renounced the League of Nations and openly opposed the entanglement of the United States in its membership.

How many times must the people of his own country tell Mr. Hoover that they do not want to become a member of the League of Nations or of the League's court?

How many times must public sentiment be registered at the polls North, East, South and West against American membership in the League or the League's court to convince Mr. Hoover that the American people are not going into the League or the League's court?

"Public sentiment is everything," said Abraham Lincoln. "With public sentiment nothing can fail; without it nothing can succeed."

Does Mr. Hoover think that Abraham Lincoln was all wrong in the faith that he avowed in public sentiment?

Does Mr. Hoover still believe, as he expressed himself in the article reproduced in the Yale News, that popular opinion does not amount to much and that the people should take their guidance from their inspired superiors?

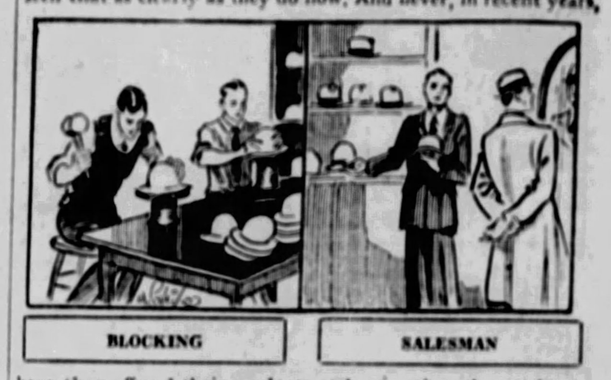
You are not, however, in the charity business, and we do not advise you to buy a hat as a charitable measure.

We advise you to buy a hat, if you need one, or a suit, or a pair of shoes, or a radio or a grand piano, because you get a bargain when you buy.

Today's market is a BUYERS' market.

Your money is worth more. Factories and stores know it is worth more. Never before have producers and distributers seen that as clearly as they do now. And never, in recent years, have they offered their products at lower prices than today.



BLOCKING | SALESMAN

They are not in the charity business, either. They are in the manufacturing and selling business, and they have cut prices in order to manufacture and sell.

They have their choice of doing that or getting OUT of business.

Today, too, the advertising pages of newspapers have become the real news pages. You may be mildly interested in the latest outbreak in Afghanistan; you ARE deeply interested in getting your money's worth when you shop. The news columns will tell you about Afghanistan, but they won't tell you how to make a dollar do the work of two.

The ads will—and, nowadays, that's NEWS.

SOLAR RADIATION

By Archibald Henderson

One of the results of modern physical theory, dealing with matter, energy, and radiation, is the belief in temperatures in the universe far beyond anything imagined before.

These figures are arrived at, not by guesswork, but by mathematical calculation on the basis of the new conceptions of the constitution and character of the atom. The theories of the atom are many and puzzling, succeeding each other with dazzling rapidity. We now have a column headed "The Atom of the Month." And the latest theory, put forward by Dirac, is pronounced entirely unintelligible to the layman!

It is difficult to gain any satisfactory conception of the new temperatures. We can imagine that a glowing mass of white hot molten metal is so many degrees hotter than a block of ice, say. But can we imagine something that is as much hotter than white hot molten metal as this is hotter than the block of ice?

On the Bohr theory of the atom and the Einstein theory, Eddington has estimated that the temperature of the surface of the sun is 6,000 degrees centigrade; and that as we penetrate the solar depths, the temperature rises, finally attaining the staggering figure of 40,000,000 degrees centigrade at the sun's center.

The electrons within solar matter are conceived to come into violent collision with each other inside of solar matter. This is analogous to the collisions which take place between the molecules of a gas. The enormous temperatures considered by Eddington could only be arrived at by the actual disruption of atomic systems. Within the atom is the central proton-sun, around which revolve the electron-planets. The tremendous heat comes about as the result of the actual stripping of the atom, tearing away the electrons from their central suns and furthermore actually disrupting matter itself.

The enormous energy released takes the form of solar radiation. This radiation compels a consequent reduction in the mass of the sun.

As Jeans picturesquely puts it, "The sun's weight has been reduced by a thousand million tons in the last four minutes, with the result that its gravitational grip on the earth has been weakened and the earth has moved out to a wider orbit; at this moment the radius of the earth's orbit is greater than it was four minutes ago."

The details can be traced out mathematically with complete precision. It appears that the earth's orbit around the sun is not a circle, or even an ellipse of small eccentricity; it is a spiral curve, like an uncoiled watch spring. Every year the earth moves a tiny step farther out into the outer cold and darkness; exact calculations show that its average distance from the sun increases at the rate of about a meter (39.37 inches) a century.

It must be remembered, of course, that this is the picture of exactly what has happened—if the theory on which it is based is correct. It is scarcely to be doubted, however, that the sun is steadily losing mass, although it is not susceptible of mathematically exact demonstration. Nor does any physicist of repute today, probably, doubt that matter and energy are interchangeable, in the sense that matter is constantly being transmuted into energy in some form.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

Guest Speeds the Host

Dry agent was nailed plenty for serving drinks to his guests at dinner.

His guests were dry agents.

They were drier agents than he was.

They were so dry they used blotting paper for napkins.

When he was nudged for a goal by the finger of the law, he stared in astigmatic contortions at his guests of honor. He said:

"I thought you boys were my friends. You have eaten my salt and broken my bread."

The drysters informed him that they had not only broken his bread but they intended to fracture all his biscuits.

Then they were going to pulverize the cookies and smack the cake into crumbs.

"We're dry agents," they rebuttled, "and once a dry agent, always a splinter under your finger nail."

"I'm a dry agent myself," said the host. "I'm so dry that when I walk in the rain I gain 70 pounds.

"But you boys don't work during dinner hour, do you?"

They did. And they didn't care whose dinner hour it was.

What makes this breach of spy etiquette all the stickier was that the liquor was good. This incident was kept quiet until after election day. When the bones rattle in the closet it isn't always a game of dice.

We hate to see hospitality flattened by unethical methods. And it compounds a good felony when a guest first smacks his lips and then smacks his host.

But war is war, and he who spies upon his neighbor shall have his most secret thoughts turned into radio entertainment.

We should feel great gobs of sorrow for the genial host who warms a snake in his bosom and discovers that it has bitten the pearls off his shirt studs. But we don't.

A dry agent should always be a dry agent, for weal or woe, in health or sickness, better or worse, and porridge or consomme.

At least he should be one until he gets a better offer.

Isn't It So?

Nobody ever gets a medal for being a meddler.

Very few of us believe in economy until we get broke.

Our best-dressed woman now is the one who used to complain that she had nothing to wear.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—Col. Charles Lindbergh winds up a year's clash with newspapers and news photographers with no particular victories. My sympathies naturally lie entirely with the Fourth Estate. In the beginning Lindbergh had a press agent and subscribed to clipping bureaus, so he is not so publicity shy.

The most extravagant reportorial encomiums ever written have been for Lindbergh and deservedly. As an extraordinarily fine and courageous achievement, his has not been excelled. Yet fairness demands that many others flying into eternity be gratefully remembered as just as courageous.

The ephemeral quality called luck, plus a cool capacity for quick thinking, played a big and important part in Lindbergh's romance of the air. Snatched out of total obscurity, the acclaim of the world was increased by the incessant huzzahs of the press.

It is unfortunate in his heroic role he has to be bothered by newspapermen but that is fame's inevitable penalty. Others who won greatness have bowed to it good naturedly. Over zealousness on the part of scandal reporters or camera men is not the fault of the press. It is on the whole a decent profession.

Col. Lindbergh's most conspicuous example of ill temper was indulged when his son was born. Naturally, the press wanted a photograph of the heir for an eager multitude. Instead, he took the photograph himself and passed it out to only those papers and press associations he favored.

He was a little surprised when papers he had snubbed published the picture he had denied them at the same time as those he favored. All newspapers are geared to grapple with just such emergencies. The first display of retaliation came a few weeks later.

A biplane skimming to its hangar on Long Island plowed into a group of innocent spectators, the whirling propellers frightfully killing a man and his wife. The plane bore the name of a line of which Lindbergh is technical adviser. The snubbed sheet's headline, eight columns wide, read: "Lindbergh Plane Kills 2."

Likely it would throw many out of work, but I wish they'd get back to putting all the food on the table—and letting us reach.

Overheard in a theater lobby: "He made his in the knee pants trade."

A gentleman, who shot the chutes in the economic eclipse, spent the summer among "the submerged tenth" on the Bowery awaiting fairer weather. His was the usual story, a soft job, riding the tide of a rising market and the crash. He is now reestablished. Said he: "Stripped of everything, I hit bottom, but found something I never found in upper stratas—friendship. It was worth the journey."

Some modernistic sleeping quarters feature beds that are just enormous silken pallets smack on the floor. Sleeping in one in a strange house recently the phone rang in the middle of the night. I tried to bound out quickly and my heels still ache.

A bed I always, secretely and a little sheepishly, admired was the enormous swan-shaped affair belonging to Diamond Jim Brady and later used in Mae West's rowdy play, "Diamond Lil." From Diamond Jim to Diamond Lil, as it were.

Professional window washing is threatened with extinction. The charge has been from 25 cents to a dollar a window, according to location. New buildings have windows that fold inside the room and do not need the belted experts from outside.

LISTEN, WORLD -:-

By Elsie Robinson

I bought a blanket yesterday. A gorgeous blanket, thick and soft and of a brave red—

Frankly, I couldn't afford it. Nor did I actually need it. I have more beds to cover this winter, but I could have pieced out with my old ones. But I felt I HAD to buy it. I felt (don't laugh!) that I owed it to my country to buy that blanket.

Now get me right. I'm no sloppy sentimentalist about America. I don't cry when they play "My Countree Tissa Thee" nor do I think we are humanity's smartest outfit. Rather I believe we've a lot to learn and maybe need an old-fashioned trimming to help us learn it. And yet—

You know how it is in the family. You're wise to the other fellow's faults all right . . . and there are times when you'd certainly like to see him get his. But—when trouble comes, that's different! Just try and pry you loose then. Why, you'd stake your last nickle on the Old Gang—

Know how that is? Sure you do. Well, that's why I bought that blanket.

For trouble has surely come to America. The queerest trouble, perhaps, that we Yanks have ever faced. The last trouble, you'd think, that a Yank would have to face. Not starvation.

We've had plenty of that, in our day . . . and licked our weight in wild cats on empty bellies. But our barns are bursting with food now and our banks are bulging with bullion. The richest nation on earth—yet we're in the deepest trouble.

Afraid! And not a real reason for it in all the length and breadth of it. Some millions dropped in the stock market. But those millions are still with us, waiting to be put into circulation.

And, heaven knows, we've started plenty in the past, with not one thousandeth part of our present stake. But we're not starting anything now. We're not even standing steady! Gone plumb loco! Just because somebody started a whine 'n wheeze campaign, and sold us the idea we were licked!

Licked? Us? Migosh! But we believe it. So we're not buying. And the merchants aren't selling. And they're letting out thousands of men and women workers from the factories and shops—with winter coming on.

And all because you and I have got the willies!

We could stop it. We could stop it in a week if we'd stop our crawling and croaking . . . if we'd wipe our chins and take a brace and begin to spend—not much, just normally—like sensible human beings—

We could stop it all and save ourselves the heeby-jeebies if we'd take a chance on America—

And, hang it all, I did it.

Maybe I'm not so strong when it comes to all this flag waving. Maybe our conceit does give me a pain in the neck, when things are regular. But just now—

Thinking of winter coming on—

Thinking of those thousands huddled around cold stoves . . . shuffling along desperate streets—

Thinking of all that I forget my grouches—

And I'm just seeing America, as I'd see my own kin—in a jam—up against it and blind afraid—

And I've got to stick!

I've got to do what I can to prove I'm standing by!

So—that's why I bought that blanket.

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS

He Who Has Worshipped Beauty

He who has worshipped Beauty
Cannot go long bereft,
For, though the world may sear him,
Still is his goddess left.

Love and fame both may leave him,
Bright ranks of hope depart,
But he who has bowed to Beauty
Will hold her in his heart.

Blessings and joys will wait him
When stars' white blooms unfold,
For him the alms of happiness
Will fall with jonquils' gold.

Never will come a morning
When dawn's pale gates swing wide,
But his glad pulse will quicken,
His soul be satisfied.

Never a glimpse of ocean,
Green waves' long ebb and flow,
But he will taste of rapture
Beyond what others know.

Text For Today Seek ye the Lord while He may be found, call ye upon Him while He is near.—Isaiah, lv:6.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

Your associates have done their best work and now can retire.

No longer are they obliged to worry about how they shall meet their financial responsibilities

You have been less successful and must forego the pleasures they now enjoy at their leisure.

You resent the fact that you are not agreeably situated.

You wanted their friendship and went beyond the possibilities of your class to be counted one among them.

Now you are reaping the whirlwind and you are sore about it.

Perhaps you are even considering some shady means to increase your income.

You think you can evade the law and escape detection and you are almost persuaded to attempt some such dealings.

You feel sure that some of your friends have not been quite honest in acquiring their properties.

Yes, and some were caught, and yet you want to procure more money by such methods.

Think of what might happen to you: is it worth the chance?
